

Summer Jobs There If You Look

By LIANE GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Competition is keen, but summer jobs are available for those who are persistent and not too particular.

That seems to be the consensus of state, county and city government officials, college and high school placement offices, company spokesmen and ambitious young people.

Tracy Herman, who will be a senior at Southeast High School next fall, said she has high hopes of landing a summer job as a swimming instructor at East High.

Tracy, 16, said she has been swimming since age 5 and on the swim team since she was 8. Last year she worked parttime as a lifeguard.

Eye On Estes Park

Kent Schroeder, 17, who will also be a senior at Southeast, has his eye on a job in Estes Park, Colo.

Kent said he would be working at either Sombrero Stables or the stables at Elkhorn Lodge.

There is one catch . . . Kent said the job only pays $70 a month plus room and board.

"I don't know, it depends," he said. "We might just stay out there for two or three weeks . . . that's really not much money."

Tiny Part Of Vast Force

Tracy and Kent are just a tiny part of the vast work force unleashed with the end of school. Thousands of youngsters will find jobs as waitresses, babysitters, construction workers, maintenance workers and corn detasslers, but hundreds of others won't find jobs at all.

Helga Grundman of the State Employment Service said job applicants are running about 3 to 1 over job openings.

"The people who get summer jobs are the ones who go out and look for them the hardest," she said. "We can only point them in the right direction; they have to do the rest."

Ms. Grundman said the local employment office tries to discourage out-of-town youths from finding jobs in Lincoln.

"We want to give local kids the first chance," she said. "Besides they (youths from out-of-town) would probably be better off working and living at home. They'll come out further ahead that way."

She said the employment service is just starting to recruit corn detasseling crews.

"It looks like we'll need more than 700 detasslers this year," she said. Most companies will start detasslers at about $1.85 an hour, up considerably from last year's $1.40, she said.

More Openings Seen

Doug Seevers, student employment coordinator at the University of Nebraska, said there seem to be a lot more job openings than last year, in all areas.

"With new businesses coming in and new buildings being built, the economic outlook for Lincoln looks pretty good," he said.

If a student works hard and goes to two or three places, Seevers said, he usually has pretty good luck.

He said he has had trouble finding students for the NU summer work-study program.

"This makes me think it's not too difficult to find a job," he said.

Gene Staberg, deputy state labor commissioner, said Manpower, Inc., is hoping to finance jobs for more than 1,500 disadvantaged Nebraska youths, not including those living in Lincoln or Omaha.

Funds Came Late

In fiscal 1973, 1,895 jobs were authorized, he said, but only 1,183 were filled because "funds came in awfully late."

Under this program, a youth can work a maximum of 24 hours a week for a minimum of $2 an hour.

To be eligible, the youth has to be between 16 and 21 years of age, inclusive, and must meet certain low-income standards set up by the Department of Labor.

Staberg said that according to the 1970 census, more than 14,000 Nebraska youths may be eligible for the program, although not all apply.

Many get out and find jobs on their own, he said.

SPEDY To Help 280

A similar program in Lincoln, called the Summer Program for Economically Disadvantaged Youth (SPEDY), will employ approximately 280 young people, using a $233,535 grant from the Labor Department.

In addition to the SPEDY program, which is sponsored by the mayor's office, Lincoln also offers the Youth Employment Service (YES), sponsored by the five Lincoln Sertoma clubs.

"The picture looks bright," said Al Kuper, Manpower coordinator for Lincoln. "From 1,000 to 1,500 youths could find jobs through all local agencies."

Best Jobs Filled

A check with several "standbys" for summer employment shows the most sought-after jobs have been filled for a month or more.

Dr. Warren Sabs of the NU Field Laboratory at Mead said all summer maintenance posts at the lab have been filled. However, he said, the field lab is accepting applications for spot (seasonal) work, such as roguing and detasseling and for help with the fall harvest.

The Lincoln Parks and Recreation Department, the State Game and Parks Commission and the State Roads Department are also pretty well set for the summer rush, according to spokesmen.

Altogether, the three agencies hire about 500 summer employees to do anything from mowing weeds and cleaning restrooms to managing school playgrounds and local swimming pools.

Recreation Backlog

Dick Leker, superintendent of recreation, said he has "occasional" openings, but he said he has a backlog of applications to draw from.

"However, we can always use more officials" for the city softball programs, he hinted.

Most businesses in the Lincoln area hire anywhere from a handful to several dozen partners to fill in for vacationing regulars.

This tradition hasn't seemed to have changed, even with the economic slowdown in most areas of the country.

It Depends On Production

American Stores normally hires up to 25 students, depending on production, a spokesman said. There doesn't seem to be any change this summer, he added.

Phil Brewer, safety director at Cushman Motor Carriers, said his firm has hired about 10 university students for the summer and may hire four or five more.

But not all summer work is for pay. For those willing and with time to spare, community and university volunteer offices have jobs to fit almost every talent and interest.

And building a work record, even as a volunteer, can often be very helpful in getting future, money-paying jobs, volunteer organizers said.

Thousands Jam Into Pinewood Bowl For Rock Concert

Park Ranger Charles Hennessey estimated the crowd of rock enthusiasts at Sunday's concert at Pinewood Bowl at from 10,000 to 12,000 persons. Others put the figure as high as 15,000. Overall, Hennessey said, "the people handled themselves very well." He said there were no major problems, just the "normal" use of alcoholic beverages and narcotics, but "not to any great extent." No one was arrested. "There were only seven of us, so we were too busy helping direct traffic and watching people to make any arrests," he said. One person collapsed, possibly from heat exhaustion, and was treated and released at Lincoln General Hospital. The concert, featuring the popular club group, Cricket, and a local group, Dr. Feelgood, was the first of six or seven concerts planned this summer by the Lincoln Parks and Recreation Dept. (Staff Photos by Frank Varga)

Ed Program Major Step

By BOB GUENTHER

Star Staff Writer

When the state's intensified special education program begins this fall, state officials say it will be a major step toward equalizing educational opportunities between handicapped and normal students.

In preparation, the State Education Department has drawn up 18 pages of proposed rules for the program which will be aired publicly at 1 p.m. Thursday in the auditorium of Lincoln East High School.

Gary Sherman, the department's administrator of federal special education programs, said in an interview the rules give the responsibility for the program to the local school districts and allow them "a great deal of flexibility."

33 Plans Offered

School districts, he noted, have joined together in various combinations and offered the department 33 different plans on how they intend to provide special teaching services for an estimated 27,000 handicapped students in the 1974-75 school year.

"We have encouraged a variety of approaches," Sherman said. School districts have the option of setting up their own program or contracting for the services with such agencies as Educational Service Units (ESUs), he said.

However, he said the department feels the more that are placed into standard school programs the better.

Eligibility Rules

The rules state that children between 5 and 18 having visual, hearing, orthopedic, speech, emotional, learning or mental impairments are eligible for a variety of special education programs which range from the standard class to a full-time residential setting.

Recent court cases, Sherman noted, have spelled out the rights of handicapped children to the same educational opportunities afforded normal students.

Consequently, the Legislature this past session nearly doubled the state's special education program from $4.7 million in 1973-74 to $8.6 million in 1974-75. This year, Sherman said, the state has served 23,000 handicapped students; by 1977, he said, the state hopes to reach 33,000 students in need of additional aids to learning.

State To Pick Up 90%

The law provides the state will pick up 90% of the extra money it will cost to assist handicapped youngsters in school. The balance, Sherman said, will be covered chiefly by federal funds.

Considering the scope of the effort, Sherman said, it is not known as yet whether $8.6 million will be enough; preliminary budget projections from the school districts indicated $12 million will be needed.

Sherman said the school districts are now recalculating their anticipated costs. If the appropriation is not enough, the law and Sen. David Stahmer have urged the State Board of Education to come back to the 1975 Legislature and request the difference.

The payments to the school districts for special education, he said, will be made on a quarterly basis, instead of an annual basis as it is now.

The rules require professional diagnostic evaluation of a child's impairment before the district can be reimbursed for services.

If a child is denied admission to a special education program, the parents have the right of appeal to local school officials and eventually to the state commissioner of education.

Authorities interrupted firefighting and rescue work after a canister of radioactive material exploded. Experts checked the area and after two hours declared the danger over. Work then was resumed.

A spokesman for the plant said the most likely source of radioactivity was an indicator used to show changes in the level of liquids employed in manufacturing caprolactum, a highly flammable chemical used in strengthening nylon for heavy industrial uses.

At the height of the fire a black cloud of poisonous fumes forced the evacuation of 20,000 persons from neighboring towns and villages. The last 3,000 were allowed to return to their damaged homes in the villages nearest to the blast on Sunday.

But Flitxborough itself, devastated by what rescue workers called the worst explosion in Britain since World War II, was declared a disaster area.

Company officials theorized the disaster may have been caused by the ignition of cyclo-hexane, a gasoline-type liquid. They said up to 237,000 gallons would have been stored at the plant and static electricity might have set it off.

The officials said the most stringent security regulations were in force, however. They said employees were searched for matches, lighters and other possible fire risks before being allowed to enter the area, and special clothing and shoes were also issued.

Democratic Women OK Continued Probe

Omaha (AP) — The National Federation of Democratic Women approved a resolution Sunday calling on the U.S. House of Representatives to continue its probe of President Nixon's actions in the Watergate case.

Delegates from about 20 of the federation's 27 representative states wrapped up a three-day national convention, also giving overwhelming approval to a resolution calling for ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) to the U.S. Constitution.

They also approved the Senate-passed version of the campaign financing bill, and urged speedy action in the House to get the bill out of committee and to the floor for debate.

The Watergate resolution said "the highest White House advisers, aides, staff and Cabinet members allegedly have been involved in criminal acts" and calls on House members to fully investigate Nixon's acts to determine whether impeachment and trial are warranted.

The federation is about two years old.

The group selected Pierre S. D., as the site for its 1975 convention.

Governors For Tapes Surrender

SEATTLE (AP) — A bipartisan panel of six leading governors said unanimously Sunday that President Nixon should surrender White House tapes and documents being sought by Watergate investigators and the House impeachment probe.

Govs. Tom McCall, Oregon Republican, and Jimmy Carter, Georgia Democrat, went further to say that failure of the President to give up the Watergate evidence would be grounds for removing him from office.

The governors appeared on a special one-hour version of NBC's "Meet The Press."

Carter, who originally called for Nixon's resignation but now says he favors impeachment, had the strongest statement among the governors gathering here for the four-day meeting.

"I personally think that the President is guilty, and I think that the release of evidence will prove it. And I think he's made a decision that the best grounds on which to base an impeachment charge is on the failure to release evidence, even if it is demanded

"I think impeachment, while it may be a difficult process, is much more definitive," Evans said. "I believe that if the end result of impeachment is that the President is removed from office, at least it will be more decisive, more people will accept the end result."

But McCall said "of all the terrible alternatives, resignation is the least awful. Impeachment will prove nothing at all definitive."

Evans, the chairman of the governors conference, said Watergate may be having a positive effect on the image of state government, which he said is remaining stable in contrast to turmoil in Washington.

"Frankly I think that in a period of national turmoil, states and state governments may be the bedrock of our political system," Evans said.

But Carter said Watergate was causing problems for the states because of Washington's preoccupation with the political scandals.

Only about five of the 200 delegates cast votes against the resolution calling for ERA ratification.

The resolution called on states which have rescinded ratification, such as Nebraska and Tennessee, to reconsider their actions.

Mrs. Gladys Morgen of Spokane, Wash., Resolutions Committee chairman, said 33 states have ratified the amendment. To become law, 38 states must ratify the amendment.

No resolutions on abortion were introduced during the convention, apparently because many states sending delegates already have laws making abortions legal, according to Mrs. Morgen.

Survey Shows Jurors Wasted

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government survey says the nation's courts waste $50 million a year by summoning too many citizens for jury duty and forcing them to wait long hours with nothing to do.

Such inefficiency frustrates and angers many citizens called for jury duty, said the study prepared for the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

"Wasting jurors' time is a clear-cut example of the criminal justice system's indifference to the needs of citizens," said Administrator Donald E. Santarelli. "More efficient court operations can make jury service more attractive and meaningful to those who serve."

The survey of certain state and local courts in Georgia, Maryland, Minnesota, Colorado, New Jersey, Texas and Michigan was conducted by Bird Engineering Research Associates Inc. of Vienna, Va., with a $157,365 grant from LEAA.

Santarelli said the efficiency recommendations proposed by the researchers could save the nation's courts $50 million annually.

The director of LEAA's research institute, Gerald M. Caplan, said the courts spend some $200 million a year in jury fees.

Santarelli said the efficiency recommendations proposed by the researchers could save the nation's courts $50 million annually.

The director of LEAA's research institute, Gerald M. Caplan, said the courts spend some $200 million a year in juror fees.

The survey said many citizens summoned for jury duty are distressed at being told to report to the courthouse daily, then forced to while away the hours in a dingy lounge until they are ultimately selected for a trial.

"Citizens have a right to demand that the courts follow reasonable time schedules," Caplan said. "Why should jurors be called hours before they are needed . . . ?"

The study estimated that two million persons are summoned for jury duty in the nation's courts annually and said "it is important that these citizens find their participation in the judicial process meaningful and useful."

Though some jurors questioned in the survey reported that they "enjoyed the entire experience," others complained "about being needlessly called, underutilized in court, and callously treated."

The report said "the busier the jurors are, the less critical they are of the unpleasant aspects of their service."

The researchers urged several procedural changes, including staggering trial schedules rather than starting several trials on the same morning, and notifying jurors in advance of days they need not report for duty.

The courts involved in the study were the Fulton County Court in Atlanta; the 7th Judicial Circuit Court in Prince George's County, Md.; the Hennepin County Court in Minneapolis; state courts in the six largest counties of Colorado; the Essex County Court in Newark; the Harris County Court in Houston, and selected Michigan courts not further identified by LEAA.

Gin Duel Bartender So Sorry He Dies

FORT WALTON BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The bartender who officiated at a "gin duel" in which the two drinkers died has succumbed to a heart attack, and his widow says it was grief that killed her husband.

Catherine Kidd, whose husband Claude died Friday, said her husband had committed no crime in officiating at the gin duel.

"It upset him that they were saying something that he wasn't guilty of," said Catherine Kidd, referring to reports that her husband might have been prosecuted for manslaughter.

She and police Lt. Eddie Carr said Kidd died of a heart attack apparently brought on by grief and shock at the deaths of Walter Wade, 39, and Eugene Cole, 32.

Kidd, 52, who died Friday, had a history of heart trouble.

Police Chief Tomm Ray said Wade and Cole drank themselves to death in attempting to settle a dispute about who could drink more. The gin-drinking contest was held on Memorial Day in Kidd's bar, the Wine Cellar, and Kidd was the timekeeper.

Kidd was badly shaken by the deaths of the two men, said his widow.

"They were close friends, all of them," she said. "He went to talk to their families. They felt all right with him, didn't feel angry with him."

"They didn't feel like it was his fault. He didn't feel like it was his fault, I'm certain, and neither do I," Mrs. Kidd said.

But she said her husband was hurt by reports that he was responsible and that there was a possibility he might face criminal charges.

Police estimated that Cole and Wade each consumed between 32 and 48 ounces of gin in less than an hour in their Memorial Day contest.

Cole was picked up on a public drunkenness charge hours after the contest was called off. He died in jail. Wade died the following day in the intensive care unit of a local hospital.

U.S. Aid 8 Times Other Side's

Washington (UPI) — Russia and Chinese arm shipments to North Vietnam fell sharply in 1973 and U.S. military aid to Indochina ran at eight times the Communist bloc rate, according to a new defense estimate made public by Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., Sunday.

Aspin said the figures from the Defense Intelligence Agency "put the lie" to recent claims by U.S. Ambassador to South Vietnam Graham Martin and other administration spokesmen that the United States was merely attempting to match Russian and Chinese shipments to Hanoi.

Aspin made the figures public just before the 1975 arms budget debate begins in the Senate. There was a possibility that Senate liberals would attempt to cut further the Senate Armed Service Committee's 1975 aid to South Vietnam figure of $900 million during debate this week.

The new aid estimate, signed by Vice Adm. V. P. De Poix, the DIA director, gave a "preliminary" figure of $290 million in Communist bloc arms shipments to Hanoi during 1973.

In the same period the United States shipped $2.3 billion worth of military aid to Indochina, the bulk of it to South Vietnam but with a substantial share to Cambodia. In addition, the United States spent just under $3 billion for its own direct involvement in the war, mostly in the bombing of Cambodia that ended last Aug. 15.

The DIA estimate showed that while Moscow and Peking cut arm shipments by more than half in 1973 from a 1972 figure of $605 million, the United States increased arms shipments by $286 million from 1972 to 1973.

During the entire war, Aspin said, DIA estimates show the United States spent 29 times as much as the Soviets and Chinese together. Aid to Hanoi since 1966 totals $3.65 billion, DIA said. The Russians gave $2.57 billion in arms and ammunition, and the Chinese $1.08 billion, according to DIA figures.

Over the same period, Aspin said, U.S. figures show an outlay of $107.1 billion on the war, of which $10.4 billion was in arms aid to South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

Citing a recent statement by Martin that "our intention all along was to balance the aid being given to the Soviet Union and the People's Republic of China to North Vietnam," Aspin said the DIA statistics "make it clear that contrary to administration propaganda there was only one superpower that sank billions and billions of dollars into the Vietnam rattle, and that was the United States."

U.S. Near Decision On Deadlier Gas

Washington (UPI) — First, the victim loses all muscular control over his body and cannot even blink his eyes. Within seconds, his limbs are paralyzed. Within a couple of minutes, he suffocates because he cannot breathe.

He is the victim of a microscopic droplet of odorless, tasteless, colorless nerve gas, a terrifying weapon stockpiled by most major world powers and some smaller nations. It has never been used in war.

Now the United States is on the verge of making a major change in nerve gas weaponry. The Defense Department asked Congress for $5.8 million in standby funds in the event a final decision is made to begin production.

Open-Air Tests?

Meanwhile, Army Secretary Howard H. Callaway is to receive soon a secret staff report on whether open-air testing of the new system will be required before production can begin.

A House foreign affairs subcommittee, conceding it lacks jurisdiction over the chemical warfare controversy, held a little-publicized series of hearings recently in an attempt to stir public debate before yet another sophisticated military delivery system is created by default.

Unlike the nerve gas now stockpiled in cannisters ready for use, the new proposed "binary system" would keep two nerve gas ingredients separate — and harmless — until they are merged at the moment of firing.

The Pentagon insists the binary system is not a big new weapon but simply an improved delivery system which would make transportation and storage of nerve gas safer and cleaner.

Justified As Deterrent

Amos A. Jordan, acting assistant defense secretary for international security affairs, testified that the United States needs the new system to deter use of chemical warfare in any future war.

"A U.S. capability to retaliate in kind and in full measure . . . was a primary reason why chemical weapons were not used against U.S. forces in World War II," Jordan told the subcommittee.

Critics among the array of other subcommittee witnesses, including scientists, academicians and members of Congress, countered that there were other reasons why nerve gas was not used. It requires bulky protective suits and masks for all troops, and there is no real defense for civilians caught in the war zone. Once released, the gas is virtually impossible to control; a sudden wind shift could make the air and land poisonous for miles around.

U.S. Hasn't Ratified

Another reason is that nearly every country, including the Soviet Union but not the United States, is party to a 1925 Geneva protocol barring the use of chemical and biological warfare. Although for various reasons the Senate has never ratified the treaty, a succession of presidents has reaffirmed that the United States would never be the first to use such weapons.

Moreover, he said, if an open society like the United States acts to improve its nerve gas stockpile, the world will know about it.

Dr. Charles C. Price, testifying for the American Chemical Society at the nerve gas hearings, disputed the Pentagon's arguments for going ahead with the binary system. Making any weapon easier to transport and store, Price said, also makes it easier to use.

Soviet Seapower Worries British

LONDON (AP) — Soviet naval exercises on the Norwegian Sea north of Scotland have again aroused British concern over the growing offensive power of the U.S.S.R.'s navy.

"I believe there is a cause for great concern," Royal Navy Capt. John Moore said Sunday. "The new Russian fleet is not a defensive fleet. It is designed to have great capabilities, to be worldwide and to implement the Soviet Union's political will."

Moore is editor of the authoritative annual on the world's navies, "Jane's Fighting Ships."

The Royal Navy has been shadowing ships involved in the current Soviet maneuvers, which it describes officially as "fairly routine antisubmarine exercises."

Moore said, however, that two warships taking part in the exercises are far superior to anything that member navies of NATO, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, are likely to have for two years.

They are guided-missile cruisers of the Kresta 1 and Kresta 2 class equipped with surface-to-surface missiles. Soviet aircraft carriers, due to appear in the next few years, will add another dimension to Soviet naval capabilities, Moore said.

Prices Up On Foods In Capitals

Washington (UPI) — Consumers in many parts of the world are finally getting some relief from the past year's boom in food prices, an Agriculture Department report indicated Sunday.

The report from the department's Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS) included some survey data showing food prices in 14 major capital cities generally rose between March and May.

Other data also show that for the first time in more than a year, food price increases in "several major economies" have been smaller than inflationary gains in other consumer products, the report said.

Big Crops Helped

"In general, many of the factors that led to higher prices last year are less likely to dominate the market this year," officials added. They said big crops in many major producing countries are primarily responsible for the improved consumer outlook.

The FAS survey of prices of 14 separate food items in the 14 world capitals indicated that median prices for 10 of the items — including boneless sirloin steak, pork chops and bacon — were higher than in March. Only two foods, boneless chuck roast and eggs, were cheaper. Two others, white bread and onions, were unchanged from March.

According to the survey, the median price of boneless sirloin rose from $2.41 a pound in March to a record $2.70 in early May. Prices in Tokyo leaped from $10.31 a pound in March to $14.70 in May.

Sirloin At 69¢
In Buenos Aires, the survey indicated, boneless sirloin in May remained at the price-controlled 69 cents a pound level shown in March. Officials noted, however, that many price-controlled meat items were not available in Buenos Aires supermarkets.

The survey showed boneless sirloin in Washington up from $2.29 in March to $2.59 a pound in May despite the fact that U.S. beef prices generally have declined in recent months. Officials said their spot survey, made by purchasing single items in supermarkets, does not necessarily conform to total national trends.

Prices Vary Widely
The 14-city shopping survey showed prices for some items differ widely around the world. In Brasilia, for example, bacon in May was priced at $3.09 a pound compared with 94 cents in one Washington supermarket, but boneless sirloin was only $1.14 a pound compared with $2.38 in Paris, $2.59 in Washington and $4.19 in Stockholm.

White bread prices ranged from 21 cents a loaf in Buenos Aires to 55 cents in Bonn, 33 cents in Washington, 62 cents in Brasilia and 68 cents in Stockholm.

Palestinians Demand Rights

Cairo — The Palestine Liberation Organization's leadership presented a political platform Sunday that bars participation by a Palestinian delegation in the Middle East Peace Conference in Geneva if the issue of "legitimate rights of the Palestinian People" is not on the agenda. This was one of 10 points in the platform submitted to the Palestine National Council, the 151-member group that serves as a parliament for the liberation group.

Netherlands Embargo Kept

Cairo — At the insistence of Saudi Arabia, the Arab oil ministers decided to keep their embargo against the Netherlands and Denmark and to set up a special fund to aid Arab countries that do not produce oil and thus face higher oil costs. As a condition for ending the Netherlands embargo, the ministers have been insisting on a clear statement of support for withdrawal of Israeli troops from Arab territory.

Reds Favoring Democrats

Moscow — The Soviet press, in a major commentary on President Nixon's summit meeting later this month in the Soviet Union, stressed that the June 27 meeting enjoyed the backing of Democrats as well as Republicans in Congress. The commentary in Pravda, following several other recent articles, emphasized that the Soviet officials had taken a view more favorable to the Democratic opposition and might even be hedging their bets on Nixon because of Soviet analysts' assessment of the Watergate situation.

Shah To Rebuild Iran

Tehran, Iran — Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi of Iran has had plans to rebuild his country for at least a dozen years, and with oil revenues pouring into the national treasury, he apparently now has the money to get them under way. The authoritarian shah has begun a radical revision of his government and of the scope of the ambitious programs for his rich but dismally underdeveloped country.

Vacation Changes Seen

New York — "This summer may reveal the greatest change in vacation patterns since World War II," said Ronald H. Walker, director of the National Park Service, and many people in the travel industry agree with him. Many more people than in the past are planning highway trips to relatively close-in resorts, within 100 to 300 miles of their home, a trend that promises to bring crowding at many places near urban areas. On the eve of the nation's annual summer vacation, rising inflation, 60-cents-a-gallon gasoline and fresh memories of the gasoline shortage are all expected to contribute to the changes in vacation patterns.

The French Are Coming

New York — Nearly 1,000 Frenchmen are coming to the United States by sea and air to bring personal messages of gratitude and friendship to the American people 30 years after allied troops swept down the coast of France to help liberate the continent from Nazi occupation. The visitors will meet in New York Tuesday for a celebration.

Queasy Riders Break Old Coasting Record

Kings Mills, Ohio (UPI) — A new human endurance record, of sorts, was set at the King's Island Amusement Park here when four teenagers broke the world record for roller coaster riding.

Their faces smeared with vaseline — to protect against windburn — the youngsters rode the roller coaster the entire 31 hours and one minute except for five-minute hourly breaks.

Why did they spend 31 hours on a roller coaster?

"Because it's there," said Hummer.

"It's just fantastic," commented Miss Lamb.

"We started out just kidding," said Rice.

"We just like to do weird things," shrugged Meier.

Keyes Attack Baffling

State Sen. Orval Keyes of Springfield has assumed a negative, destructive attitude in the wake of voter rejection of legislative pay raises.

We can understand his frustration at the defeat of Amendment No. 1 at the polls last May 14. That proposition would have hiked a senator's annual pay from $4,800 to $8,100, a move toward equitable compensation for the lawmakers which is long overdue. But what will Keyes gain by stirring up public resentment against the University of Nebraska?

In a press release last week, Keyes questioned how recent salary increases and housing allowances for certain employees of the University of Nebraska can be justified "in light of the fact that the voters of Nebraska turned down a $275 a month raise for the state legislators."

Keyes claimed certain NU employees were given salary raises of 10 to 12% in 1973, followed by a 5% increase plus $300 for the next year and a $4,800 housing allowance. Keyes said he would appreciate knowing the reasoning behind the housing allowance, since it is "more than many families earn, and they are paying taxes to support these people."

Those making less than $4,800 annually are not contributing much in support of university personnel, of course. Keyes knows that, but it is in keeping with a demagogic attack on the university which makes no sense at all. Misery obviously loves company, otherwise Keyes, bitten by the voters, wouldn't be calling out the dogs on the university in such a spiteful, petty manner.

All In Good Time

Gov. Jim Exon doubtless is flattered by Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter's observation in Omaha last week that Exon is vice presidential timber in 1976.

It's always helpful if the home folks hear that their governor is highly thought of in national party circles. It may well be that Exon could surface as a strong vice presidential possibility.

But 1976 is two years hence and right now Exon may wish, on second thought,

The Legislature this last session approved the 5% plus $300 raise for all state employees, not just certain NU employees, and it amounts to one step up in the state pay plan. Not an overly generous raise in this inflation-plagued year. The NU Board of Regents also approved an increase from $250 per month to $400 per month in housing allowances which are paid to the chancellors of the Lincoln and Omaha campuses and the Medical center in lieu of permanent housing. While many other comparable institutions provide their top campus administrators with executive mansions, NU pays housing allowances. It is a salary supplement to help keep this school competitive. And it amounts to a total of not quite $15,000 per year.

If Sen. Keyes thinks "certain employees of the University of Nebraska" are overcompensated, he might like to explain why NU has lost several up-and-coming topflight administrators to other schools in recent years. It is because, as Keyes should know, the other schools are paying much more money. This university system still has a way to go before it is really competitive in the field.

Most Nebraskans realize by now that they will get what they pay for so far as the quality of this state's system of higher education is concerned. And that can probably be said for the Legislature, too: the people will get what they pay for.

We don't see the tie between legislative pay and university salaries and we can't understand why Keyes seeks to hurt the institution. NU has been cast in its traditional role as whipping boy whenever a politician gets mad.

WASHINGTON — The irony of William Fulbright's defeat as senator from Arkansas is that it happened precisely when he had finally established a close and effective working relationship between the Foreign Relations Committee and the Department of State.

For most of his long service as chairman of that powerful committee, Fulbright was at odds with Secretaries of State Dean Rusk and William P. Rogers. There was nothing personal about this.

He was a Rhodes scholar with Rusk at Oxford University and a personal friend and golfing companion of Rogers, but they differed fundamentally on Vietnam, foreign and military aid and other policies, and loitered down into sullen opposition.

President Nixon and Secretary of State Kissinger changed all that, however, with their opening to China, their insistence on arms control with the Soviet Union, and their determined efforts for reconciliation in the Middle East — crowned on the day of Fulbright's defeat with agreement

He Hopes To Be Wrong

Blair, Neb.

President Nixon tells us that the main thrust of the recent skyrocketing inflationary trend has peaked. The next day Arthur Burns, top man in the Federal Reserve Bank, tells us we may be faced with "losing our way of life" if inflation is not brought under control. Another day later, Mr. Nixon's chief economic advisory, Stein, issues a statement which casually states that these "aren't the best times we have had... nor the worst," which is the understatement of all times but typically "egg-head."

In my opinion, we are in the throes of runaway inflation, which can end only in a gloomy prediction such as that which comes from Mr. Burns. The President, long guilty of oversimplification where our economy is concerned, is still trying with rhetoric and misleading statements to lull us to sleep as we rush toward the rapids of ruin.

Somehow a way must be found to check the unbridled greed and selfishness which prevail on all levels in this nation. Everyone wants to rush to the well and sate his feverish thirst for too much, while hoping that somehow it will all work out. We could be much closer to serious upset in our country than many realize. I pray that I am wrong.

DEWEY NEMETZ

The Whole Beautiful Apple

Wilber, Neb.

We live out here in the country on a little strip of land. We have no high-paying job, yet looking around, we find we are the rich folks of the world. We have a feeling of freedom as we stretch out our legs, watching the ponies grazing on the tall grass that waves in a gentle breeze. There is the growing garden, the birds building their nests in the leafy trees — all untouched by humans, the way Mother Nature meant it to be, and the way we like it. Nebrascans can have a great life.

Yet we are constantly harassed by those who would destroy and desecrate this land just to line their pockets with silver. If people would think this through, they would buck like a bronco and break that harness when the whip is cracked demanding more profits.

People must pull in on the reins and give Mother Nature a chance to take her proper course, or we will awaken some morning with nothing but the shell and skeleton of her works. As the sands of time shift away, we would find that we never had enough to satisfy the greedy whip-crackers of this world.

The Good Lord has appointed us caretakers of His creation, to cherish, to guard, to produce upon and to pass on to our children. I don't know about others, but I would like to pass on to my son the whole apple and not just the core.

men like Fulbright who have been down in the political pit, arguing against presidents of their own or the other party.

In the parliamentary system of democratic government, in Britain, for example, Fulbright would have had a "safe seat" in the House of Commons so long as he retained his present vigor, and later, he would have found a place in the House of Lords, where a man's experience and wisdom can be rescued without taxing his energies.

But our system is more sharp and even cruel. We elect them and give them more work than they can stand, and then defeat them and give them less respect than they can bear.

In a sense, our system is probably right. It makes more room for the young. It chooses the men who are coming, like Dale Bumpers, instead of the men who are going, like Fulbright, but we don't have to scrap the Fulbrights just because we defeat them, and this is now the point of Fulbright's defeat.

between Israel and Syria for a cease-fire along the Golan Heights.

The question now is whether it should be assumed that Fulbright's service in the field of foreign policy should end with his defeat, or whether his talents and influence might still be used at this critical point in the relations between the executive and the legislature, and between the United States and the Soviet Union, China, Europe and Japan.

In partisan and personal terms, it is hard to imagine the President's offering to appoint Fulbright to any key foreign policy post, or Fulbright's accepting one if offered, but both are in trouble now, and cooperation between the parties on foreign policy is not only essential, but may be the last hope of reconciliation here in these tragic days.

It so happens that the President has some key jobs to fill at the State Department. Kenneth Rush, Secretary Kissinger's deputy, has just been transferred to the White House to ease the burdens on Al Haig and supervise economic policy, and two of the three key posts under Rush are also vacant.

At the same time, Walter Annenberg has asked to come home from his post as US ambassador to London, and while there have been reports that Thruston Morton of Kentucky is being considered for this post, apparently the President has made no commitment to him or anyone else.

Unfortunately, the American political system leaves little room for the defeated warriors of politics. It recognizes the talents and service of remarkable men like David Bruce and Ellsworth Bunker, who have served the Republic in the highest diplomatic posts, regardless of their party affiliations, and go on into their seventies in such critical missions as Peking or Saigon.

President Roosevelt found a way to use such talents by creating the post of special ambassador for critical missions, which used experienced men without burdening them with administrative responsibilities, but it is harder to use

The mission of SAC is to deter attacks on the United States and our farflung allies.

People usually don't get around to saying thanks to Gen. Meyer for his command's round-the-clock vigilance. But Saturday night the resident did so in Omaha. The general hangs up his hat and retires his row of ribbons August 1.

The fear is that it may have been aptly named.

The Messerschmitts and the FW's creamed 156 allied aircraft in a series of desperate sweeps over airdromes in France, Holland and Belgium. When they struck Asch, Belgium, without warning, of course, Meyer, by then deputy commander of the 352nd Group, raced for his fighter, got its engine started, and took off into the teeth of the incoming sweep. He was forced to fly through his own flak. His fighter's wing was slashed by anti-aircraft fire, but he knocked down two of the incoming Luftwaffe fighters and was on the tail of a third when he ran out of ammunition and had to limp home.

Those two were his last World War II victories. Shortly thereafter, his jeep turned over while churning over a rutty road and he was hurt badly enough to miss action during the last months of the war. There is no

Gen. Meyer entered the Army Air Force in 1940 for an odd reason. He was a runner in his uncle's Wall Street bank. He spent most of his working days on his feet, standing up on the subway coming to work, standing up (or running) at work, standing up at lunch at some financial-area quick-and-dirty, and standing up on the homebound subway.

Once he found a seat, but at the next stop a pregnant lady got on the car and he gallantly stood up to give his seat to her. Instead, some slob who weighed twice as much as Meyer pounced on it. Meyer pulled him up and took a punch at him. The next thing he remembers was that he was lying on the platform of the next subway stop. He had been clobbered for his gallantry.

He decided to enlist in the Army Air Force. He went to Flushing (N.Y.) Airport and paid five bucks for his first plane ride. Then he journeyed to Mitchell Field, Long Island. Keyes Attack Baffling

State Sen. Orval Keyes of Springfield has assumed a negative, destructive attitude in the wake of voter rejection of legislative pay raises.

We can understand his frustration at the defeat of Amendment No. 1 at the polls last May 14. That proposition would have hiked a senator's annual pay from $4,800 to $8,100, a move toward equitable compensation for the lawmakers which is long overdue. But what will Keyes gain by stirring up public resentment against the University of Nebraska?

In a press release last week, Keyes questioned how recent salary increases and housing allowances for certain employees of the University of Nebraska can be justified "in light of the fact that the voters of Nebraska turned down a $275 a month raise for the state legislators."

Keyes claimed certain NU employees were given salary raises of 10 to 12% in 1973, followed by a 5% increase plus $300 for the next year and a $4,800 housing allowance. Keyes said he would appreciate knowing the reasoning behind the housing allowance, since it is "more than many families earn, and they are paying taxes to support these people."

Those making less than $4,800 annually are not contributing much in support of university personnel, of course. Keyes knows that, but it is in keeping with a demagogic attack on the university which makes no sense at all. Misery obviously loves company, otherwise Keyes, bitten by the voters, wouldn't be calling out the dogs on the university in such a spiteful, petty manner.

Gov. Jim Exon doubtless is flattered by Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter's observation in Omaha last week that Exon is vice presidential timber in 1976.

It's always helpful if the home folks hear that their governor is highly thought of in national party circles. It may well be that Exon could surface as a strong vice presidential possibility.

But 1976 is two years hence and right now Exon may wish, on second thought,

Heading for a decision now is the Nebraska Public Power District's application to operate a big coal-burning electric power plant in the Platte Valley.

No ordinary application, that one.

At stake — perhaps — is the supply of sufficient electric energy for Nebraska in the second half of this decade and — perhaps — the future quality of the air in Nebraska's lush river valley, which is home to many outstagers.

Does one factor need give way to the other?

NPPD says the plant is now designed with sufficient air pollution control equipment. The Sierra Club says more equipment is needed to protect the unspoiled air in the valley.

The Department of Environmental Control will make the decision.

A personal opinion: If more equipment is needed to remove harmful emissions, I, as one electric consumer, will be glad to help pay for it.

Additional costs for more equipment would, of course, be reflected in your electric bills. NPPD just adds up the costs, and passes them on.

Well, if it costs millions — or tens of millions — of additional dollars to protect the Platte Valley, fine. It's worth it.

Among this state's invaluable assets is its pure air. No price tag would be too high to preserve it.

If that means we prevent any large-scale industrial or population growth in the state, all the better.

But, now, if NPPD's contentions are accurate, there is no need for additional equipment to adequately protect the air.

Such additions would only involve a time-wasting cost to rate-payers, delay the operation of the plant and raise the likelihood of a power shortage, and minimize the plant's efficiency, NPPD argues.

I have not attended the hearings on the issue, so neither side's arguments are fully before me. I cannot judge on the evidence.

But if the question revolves somewhat on clean air standards, as I am led to believe, I think we have a right to insist that our standards in Nebraska be higher than those which apply nationally. Much higher.

Hit-And-Run

JAMES RESTON

WASHINGTON — The irony of William Fulbright's defeat as senator from Arkansas is that it happened precisely when he had finally established a close and effective working relationship between the Foreign Relations Committee and the Department of State.

For most of his long service as chairman of that powerful committee, Fulbright was at odds with Secretaries of State Dean Rusk and William P. Rogers. There was nothing personal about this.

He was a Rhodes scholar with Rusk at Oxford University and a personal friend and golfing companion of Rogers, but they differed fundamentally on Vietnam, foreign and military aid and other policies, and loitered down into sullen opposition.

President Nixon and Secretary of State Kissinger changed all that, however, with their opening to China, their insistence on arms control with the Soviet Union, and their determined efforts for reconciliation in the Middle East — crowned on the day of Fulbright's defeat with agreement

He Hopes To Be Wrong

Blair, Neb.

President Nixon tells us that the main thrust of the recent skyrocketing inflationary trend has peaked. The next day Arthur Burns, top man in the Federal Reserve Bank, tells us we may be faced with "losing our way of life" if inflation is not brought under control. Another day later, Mr. Nixon's chief economic advisor, Stein, issues a statement which casually states that these "aren't the best times we have had . . . nor the worst," which is the understatement of all times but typically "egg-head."

In my opinion, we are in the throes of runaway inflation, which can end only in a gloomy prediction such as that which comes from Mr. Burns. The President, long guilty of oversimplification where our economy is concerned, is still trying with rhetoric and misleading statements to lull us to sleep as we rush toward the rapids of ruin.

Somehow a way must be found to check the unbridled greed and selfishness which prevail on all levels in this nation. Everyone wants to rush to the well and sate his feverish thirst for too much, while hoping that somehow it will all work out. We could be much closer to serious upset in our country than many realize. I pray that I am wrong.

DEWEY NEMETZ

The Whole Beautiful Apple

Wilber, Neb.

We live out here in the country on a little strip of land. We have no high-paying job, yet looking around, we find we are the rich folks of the world. We have a feeling of freedom as we stretch out our legs, watching the ponies grazing on the tall grass that waves in a gentle breeze. There is the growing garden, the birds building their nests in the leafy trees — all untouched by humans, the way Mother Nature meant it to be, and the way we like it. Nebraskans can have great life.

Yet we are constantly harassed by those who would destroy and desecrate this land just to line their pockets with silver. If people would think this through, they would buck like a bronco and break that harness when the whip is cracked demanding more profits.

People must pull in on the reins and give Mother Nature a chance to take her proper course, or we will awaken some morning with nothing but the shell and skeleton of her works. As the sands of time shift away, we would find that we never had enough to satisfy the greedy whip-crackers of this world.

The Good Lord has appointed us caretakers of His creations, to cherish, to guard, to produce upon and to pass on to our children. I don't know about others, but I would like to pass on to my son the whole apple and not just the core.

men like Fulbright who have been down in the political pit, arguing against presidents of their own or the other party.

In the parliamentary system of democratic government, in Britain, for example, Fulbright would have had a "safe seat" in the House of Commons so long as he retained his present vigor, and later, he would have found a place in the House of Lords, where a man's experience and wisdom can be rescued without taxing his energies.

But our system is more sharp and even cruel. We elect them and give them more work than they can stand, and then defeat them and give them less respect than they can bear.

'How You Gonna Keep Them In Paris Once ...'

By DOMINICK COSTELLO

Farm Editor

It used to be that farmers were moving to the city — like the old song, "how you gonna keep them down on the farm after they've seen Paree?"

Today, the movement seems to be going the other way as increasing numbers of city-raised youngsters sign up for agricultural courses in schools at Northeast.

Sharp increases in vocational agriculture enrollments in Lincoln's Northeast High School have prompted school leaders to consider some expansion of courses in horticulture, vocational agriculture and other farm-related subjects.

Only Active FFA

Northeast has been the only Lincoln school to offer vocational agriculture for many years and is still the only Lincoln school with an active chapter of the Future Farmers of America (FFA) under the direction of Lloyd Schmedeke, vocational agriculture instructor at Northeast.

Dr. Allen G. Blezek, coordinator of career education for the Lincoln school system, has prepared a proposal for an expansion of courses related to agriculture based on increased job opportunities for students who have taken them in high school.

Digger Makes Fencing Faster

BARTLEY, Neb. (AP) — Necessity is the mother of all inventors. And Rancher Gerald Quinn of Burwell found the saying especially true.

Like most ranchers in the Burwell area, Quinn runs cattle and, where there are cattle, there are fences.

Fences mean repair work — sometimes as much as two and three miles — and that is why Quinn turned inventor.

He invented a posthole digger which made use of the existing equipment on his tractor — particularly his hay loader and the hydraulic equipment.

His digger is hydraulically operated and may be coupled and uncoupled from the loader in a matter of minutes. It also does something that Quinn believes no other load posthole digger does.

"I personally do not know of any other digger in which the direction it is digging can be reversed bringing the auger back out of the ground," he said.

"Most diggers, which are either rear mounted or mounted to a three point hitch, are lifted out."

Quinn started work on a hydraulic digger in 1968 and has since completed three models. He received a patent on the digger last February.

"There was nothing of this type available on the market," he said. "We do a lot of fencing in this part of the country, so I wanted something which was faster and more efficient."

Using old scrap metal, an orbit hydraulic pump and his tractor mounted hay fork, Quinn designed and built a front mounted posthole digger. By adding some extra hose, he was able to power the digger with the hydraulic motor on the tractor.

The incident occurred at the Two Rivers recreation area southwest of here shortly after 3 p.m.

Authorities said the boy apparently stepped into a hole and disappeared from sight. Rescue efforts by the three other boys failed.

Scuba divers searched the area Sunday afternoon, but were unable to locate the body by dark.

Omaha Youth Is Drowned

Omaha (AP) — Douglas County officials said an Omaha youth, Rollie N. Rogers Jr., 15, apparently drowned Sunday afternoon while wading with three friends in the Platte River.

The incident occurred at the Two Rivers recreation area southwest of here shortly after 3 p.m.

Authorities said the boy apparently stepped into a hole and disappeared from sight. Rescue efforts by the three other boys failed.

R. J. White of North Platte, engineer of the freight, told sheriff's deputies he saw the youth walking along the tracks, but the boy did not respond to almost continuous blasts from the train's whistle.

Western Kansas is well into the harvest of wheat, but combine operators say it is averaging around 16 bushels an acre. This is well below the official estimate.

Oklahoma is harvesting wheat which is running well in the fields, but farmers feel much of the state is too dry for the kind of yields government experts have said will be harvested.

Western Kansas is very dry and yields will be much lower than farmers had hoped for earlier in the season. There have been official protests of government estimates by Roads Meeting Set.

The Citizens Advisory Group to the State Roads Department has scheduled a public meeting for 7 p.m. June 12. The meeting will be at the Department of Roads auditorium at 14th and Burnham.

'How You Gonna Keep Them In Paris Once ...'

By DOMINICK COSTELLO

Farm Editor

It used to be that farmers were moving to the city — like the old song, "how you gonna keep them down on the farm after they've seen Paree?"

Today, the movement seems to be going the other way as increasing numbers of city-raised youngsters sign up for agricultural courses in schools around the nation.

Sharp increases in vocational agriculture enrollments in Lincoln's Northeast High School have prompted school leaders to consider some expansion of courses in horticulture, vocational agriculture and other farm-related subjects.

Only Active FFA

Northeast has been the only Lincoln school to offer vocational agriculture for many years and is still the only Lincoln school with an active chapter of the Future Farmers of America (FFA) under the direction of Lloyd Schmedeke, vocational agriculture instructor at Northeast.

Dr. Allen G. Blezek, coordinator of career education for the Lincoln school system, has prepared a proposal for an expansion of courses related to agriculture based on increased job opportunities for students who have taken them in high school.

Digger Makes Fencing Faster

BARTLEY, Neb. (AP) — Necessity is the mother of all inventors. And Rancher Gerald Quinn of Burwell found the saying especially true.

Like most ranchers in the Burwell area, Quinn runs cattle and, where there are cattle, there are fences.

Fences mean repair work — sometimes as much as two and three miles — and that is why Quinn turned inventor.

He invented a posthole digger which made use of the existing equipment on his tractor — particularly his hay loader and the hydraulic equipment.

His digger is hydraulically operated and may be coupled and uncoupled from the loader in a matter of minutes. It also does something that Quinn believes no other load posthole digger does.

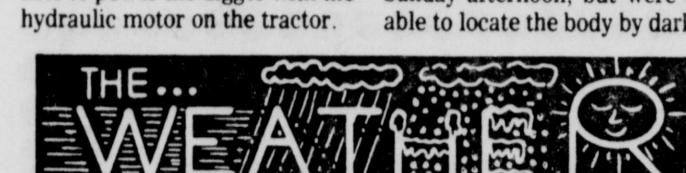

"I personally do not know of any other digger in which the direction it is digging can be reversed bringing the auger back out of the ground," he said.

"Most diggers, which are either rear mounted or mounted to a three point hitch, are lifted out."

Quinn started work on a hydraulic digger in 1968 and has since completed three models. He received a patent on the digger last February.

"There was nothing of this type available on the market," he said. "We do a lot of fencing in this part of the country, so I wanted something which was faster and more efficient."

Using old scrap metal, an orbit hydraulic pump and his tractor mounted hay fork, Quinn designed and built a front mounted posthole digger. By adding some extra hose, he was able to power the digger with the hydraulic motor on the tractor.

Relieves Tormenting Rectal Pain And Itch, Helps Shrink Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues

... Due to inflammation. Gives prompt, temporary relief from such burning itch and pain in many cases.

The burning itch and pain caused by infection and inflammation in hemorrhoidal tissues can cause much suffering. But there is an exclusive formula that in many cases gives prompt relief for hours from this itch and pain so that the sufferer is more comfortable again. It also actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation and infection.

Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients in New York City, Washington, D.C. and at a Mid-West Medical Center reported similar successful results in many cases. This is the same medication you can buy at any drug counter under the name Preparation H®.

Preparation H also lubricates to protect the inflamed surface area and it doesn't sting or smart. In fact, it has very soothing qualities which make it especially helpful during the night when itching becomes more intense.

There's no other formula like Preparation H. In ointment or suppository form.

"Blezek's proposal involves horticulture courses at Robin Mickle Junior High, at Dawes and at the Lincoln Learning Center. Between 60 and 70 students have asked to be included in the classes plus about 90 who have signed up for vocational agricultural courses at Northeast.

City youngsters entering various agricultural occupations face greater obstacles than farm youngsters, but if the interest is there, they can make it according to Schmedeke.

"They have a longer way to go. They don't know how to drive a tractor and seldom have a chance to work with live animals, but if they want to work at it they can make it," he said.

Schmedeke's students have done a lot of work on the Family Mission Shelter farm at 84th and Adams under the Building Our American Communities (BOAC) program sponsored by FFA.

Schmedeke also gets a good deal of cooperation in poultry studies from Hills Hatchery in Lincoln, and some area farmers allow him to use their farms as outdoor classrooms for his students.

"We need some land where we can grow things in plots and teach such skills as tractor operation. It needn't be as large as the farm in Omaha but it would really help our city-born farmers compete with farm-reared youngsters after graduation from school," he said.

Girls Like Horses

"One of our girl students, who has graduated, has her own business breaking and training horses. Many of our girls take vocational agriculture because of an interest in horses. Some of our students have successfully become farmers and many end up working for feed companies and chemical companies. A study at the school indicates that about 60% of my students have

Besides the advantage of being able to operate the digger in either direction, Quinn said that, if it is mounted on the front of the tractor, it is easier to watch it operate.

"From where I sit, I can see exactly where I want to put this thing with no backing up involved compared to the rear-mounted diggers.

"The digger works better on hard soils because it digs faster due to the weight of the hay fork," he said.

Gretta Woman Killed In Broadside Collision

Omaha (AP) — An intersection crash west of Omaha claimed the life early Sunday of Mrs. Yoshiko Mitchell, 42, of Gretta, Douglas County sheriff's officers said.

Officers said a car driven by her husband, Hershel Mitchell, 42, and one driven by Mrs. Neil.

The death raised the Nebraska highway fatality toll for the year to 126 as compared with 153 a year ago.

Omaha Youth Is Drowned

Omaha (AP) — Douglas County officials said an Omaha youth, Rollie N. Rogers Jr., 15, apparently drowned Sunday afternoon while wading with three friends in the Platte River.

The incident occurred at the Two Rivers recreation area southwest of here shortly after 3 p.m.

Authorities said the boy apparently stepped into a hole and disappeared from sight. Rescue efforts by the three other boys failed.

Scuba divers searched the area Sunday afternoon, but were unable to locate the body by dark.

A spokesman for the Lincoln County sheriff's office said he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sanford of Wood River.

The boy had been staying with relatives at Hershey.

R. J. White of North Platte, engineer of the freight, told sheriff's deputies he saw the youth walking along the tracks, but the boy did not respond to almost continuous blasts from the train's whistle.

Spotlight on Agriculture

By DOMINICK COSTELLO

The European Community (the Common Market) is seriously considering providing price supports to their farmers who want to grow soybeans.

This could be interpreted as a reaction to the ban on soybean exports our unwise government applied last year, if it could be a repeat of the chicken war thing when the American exports of chicken were destroyed by protectionist action of the Common Market.

They succeeded in ending poultry imports by developing and protecting their own poultry production industry.

The end losers on this seemingly endless chain of events is the Common Market consumer who pays more for all his food, and the American farmer who loses a market for his product.

The American consumer also is a loser because such action discourages the American farmer to produce less, which in turn, drives up prices in the stores.

Mitchell was hospitalized as was the couple's 11-year-old son, Leonard. Also hospitalized were Mrs. Thacker and her husband, Neil, 62.

The death raised the Nebraska highway fatality toll for the year to 126 as compared with 153 a year ago.

Moving Is Emotional Shock

By LINDA OLIG

Moving "is something akin to the shock a plant goes through when you uproot it," observed Jerry Aspengren, director of the Child Guidance Center. "You have to get it back into the soil . . . or it will die."

"We're all looking for a root, permanence, and it just sort of shakes it a bit when you move," he continued.

Her Husband Is Too Loving

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a very loving husband. That's the trouble. He's TOO loving. For example, this morning he drove the kids to school and came back thinking I'd drop everything and make the bedroom scene with him. He often waits around until all the kids are gone, then he starts getting lovey-dovey when I should be getting my housework done.

Will you please tell him that the time for romance is after all the kids are asleep?

Also, he always gets ideas after bowling. Bowling wears me out, but for him it's an afrodeeshka (or however you spell it). I wouldn't mind if I could sleep the next morning, but I have to get up to drive the car pool. Am I wrong to complain? After all, we're not newlyweds. We've been married for 17 years.

Advance planning can eliminate last-minute moving headaches. For families planning to change homes this summer, staff writer Linda Olig has prepared a general timetable for the six-weeks before the move.

Make Your Move Easier

Americans are continually on the move.

That fact is evidenced by the growing number of commercial moving vans and do-it-yourself trucks seen sailing up and down the highways.

It has been estimated that 43 million Americans will change addresses this year, and most of them, particularly those with school-age children, will choose to make their move during the summer months.

"The cost of your move (from one city to another) will depend on the weight and value of your household goods, the distance involved, and the special services you may require, such as packing, storage, and delivery time," according to the Interstate Commerce Commission, the federal agency which regulates the practices of household good moving companies.

Earl Bottlinger, manager of Sullivan Transfer and Storage, estimated the average long-distance move from Lincoln costs between $1,200 and $1,600. Moving from home to home within the city runs between $200 and $350, he said.

Whenever and wherever you move, particularly from town to town, there are many things that must be looked after before you leave the family homestead. Advance planning can eliminate last-minute headaches.

Professional moving companies offer, free of charge, pamphlets which will help make your move an easier one.

A general timetable of what to do when goes something like this:

Four to six weeks before moving day:

—Decide whether you will move yourself or have professional movers handle your household goods.

—Make necessary arrangements, including an estimate of the costs involved in your move — packing, transportation, extra charges. Schedule a moving date with the professionals or company from which you will rent equipment.

—Explain the reason for the move to children, pointing out any advantages, including new things to do and see, new friends to make.

—Tour your home from attic to basement, deciding what to move and what to discard.

—Consider having a garage sale to dispose of unwanted items.

—Arrange for the disposal of your house or apartment.

—Arrange for a house-hunting trip to the new city if yours is to be a long-distance move.

—Send change-of-address notices to post offices, magazines, friends and relatives, insurance companies, creditors (charge accounts and credit cards), lawyer, draft board, state and local income tax bureaus, Veteran's and Social Security Administrations.

—Arrange to have discontinued such services as telephone, electricity, water, gas, lay-away purchases, milkman, fuel oil, newspapers, laundry and dry cleaning, garbage collection and diaper delivery.

—Look after transferring such records as school, automobile and driver's license, bank and savings and loans, doctors and dentists, legal, church, organizations and credit.

—Begin to use up large supplies of canned and frozen goods and other household items. Buy only what will be used before moving.

—Assemble personal reference records.

—Start collecting suitable containers and packing materials if you plan to do the packing yourself.

Two to three weeks before moving day:

—Make family travel plans.

—Have your car prepared for the trip.

—To guard your household goods against damage that could be caused by fire, explosion or leaking: dispose of flammables, such as fireworks, cleaning fluids, matches, acids, chemistry sets, pressure cans; drain oil and fuel from your power mower and other machinery, and discard partly-used cans of oil, paint, syrup or any other substance that may leak; carefully tape-seal and place in individual waterproof bags any jars of liquids or semi-liquids you do not wish to discard.

—If you have decided to do some of the packing, start now. Books are easily packed several weeks prior to the move. Another helpful hint is to label each container with a description of its contents and directions as to which room it is to be placed in.

Experts recommend packing books in oblong cardboard boxes — they hold the weight of the books better and are easier to carry than square cartons.

When packing china, glass and dishes, separate with newspapers and stand them up on a base of linen. Like eggs, dishes are less likely to break when stood on end rather than flat.

—Return library books and anything borrowed from friends or neighbors; also collect things you

Amnesty Group Varies Widely

The New York Times

New York — They were people of hard common sense, mixed in with visionaries and polemicists, and a few cranks, too. They were all members of the American branch of Amnesty International, and they came together in the McAlpin Hotel on West 34th Street the other day for a national conference.

Amnesty International works for the release of political prisoners around the world, and the first Amnesty group in the United States was founded in 1966 on Riverside Drive. Mostly, it was made up of Columbia University academics. Now there are 93 American groups, and they are all more disparate than that.

William F. Buckley Jr. and Joan Baez are members, for example, and ordinarily Buckley and Miss Baez do not agree on anything at all. They were not at the McAlpin, however, but Ramsey Clark was, and when the former attorney general walked in, clutching a container of coffee, there was low applause. For organizations like Amnesty, he is a beau ideal.

Portugal Brought-Up

"I would like to tell you something about Portugal," Stephanie Grant said. Miss Grant, director of research at Amnesty International headquarters in London, was sitting on a platform, bathed in klieg lights.

She was interrupted then by a woman from Stamford, Conn., who rose from the audience and inquired about an Amnesty worker who had been jailed in Britain.

"I know her personally," a man in the audience said. "She is a person who in no way has ever engaged in violence."

Then a man asked if the Amnesty worker had been tried before a jury, and a woman asked for the address of her prison. Martin Enthoven, executive secretary of Amnesty International, said the organization would do all it could to help her, and then the discussion returned to Miss Grant.

Portugal Again

Miss Grant was talking again about Portugal, when a man in the audience asked if the Central Intelligence Agency was involved in the new government there.

"This is the great unanswered question," Miss Grant said thoughtfully, and mentioned a couple of stories about it in the British press. Still, she said, there is no real evidence one way or the other.

When Miss Grant began talking about the torture of prisoners, and about psychiatric investigations into the effect of torture.

"What purpose would be served by a psychiatric investigation?" a man in the audience asked.

Another man in the audience, a political prisoner from a long time ago, began shaking his head.

'Useless, Useless'

"Useless," he said quietly, "useless, useless, useless."

Meanwhile, a psychologist was on her feet, saying that she had investigated the torture of prisoners in Northern Ireland, and that the findings had been significant.

"I didn't mean to suggest that torture shouldn't be exposed," said the man who had started the discussion. He sounded apologetic, but he said that everyone had known all about torture ever since Arthur Koestler wrote "Darkness at Noon."

The discussion meandered after that. An Israeli asked for a resolution on prisoner exchange in the Middle East, a Cuban talked about prisoners in Havana and a man from Americans for Democratic Action said Amnesty International ought to ask the government about the effect of torture on the crew of the Pueblo.

'Russia,' Groans

Frequently, the man from ADA mentioned "Communist Russia," and when he did, other delegates groaned. Whatever else they are, the delegates are not particularly ideological.

"It's unfortunate that the practical ways of prisoner release were not taken up during the discussion," Amelia Augustus, the executive director of the American Amnesty groups, said from the platform. She said she wanted to chastise the delegates.

At the coffee break, everyone milled about, trading pieces of gossip. A young woman said she was about to go into a Soviet-bloc country to gather information on prisoners and a young man said he had just been in Chile doing the same thing.

Pests For Freedom

The delegates from New York were mostly academic and other establishment types. The delegates from California were mostly students and housewives. The thing about all of them was that they wrote letters to foreign governments, picketed embassies and in general made pests of themselves in the name of political freedom.

When the conference was over, no one seemed sure what, if anything, had been accomplished. It is always this way with groups like Amnesty International, and as much as anything else they feast off hope.

"It seems like a week ago since I spoke to you at 9 o'clock this morning," Dr. Ivan Morris, chairman of the American Amnesty groups, said as he closed the conference. "I do hope that you learned something practical for your groups."

Morris was not certain that they had, of course; he was feasting off hope, too.

Greece, Turkey Arguing Oil Exploration

ATHENS (AP) — Greece is determined to fight and "not yield" an inch to Turkey over their oil exploration dispute in the Aegean, Greek military officers and diplomats said in conversations Sunday.

Greece contends that Turkey has no legal right to seek oil in the Aegean in waters which "rightfully and historically" belong to the Greeks.

"We stand on our legal rights and any discussions with the Turks on oil exploration will be based solely on the Geneva convention of 1958," one diplomat said.

The Geneva convention defines the continental shelves of islands and land masses. Turkey is not a signatory to the convention.

Talks between Greece and Turkey are expected to be held during the NATO foreign ministers' conference in Ottawa and at the law of the sea meeting in Caracas, Venezuela, both set for later this month.

An army officer said, "This time we will fight. We are left with no other alternative. If we permit Turkey to call their own shots in the Aegean near our islands then we can expect them to be drilling off the shores of the Greek mainland later on."

The tension between the two Western alliance neighbors reached a dangerous stage Wednesday when an oceanographic ship said to belong to the Turkish navy and an accompanying destroyer set out to conduct magnetic soundings of the seabed near the island of Lesbos. At the same time, the Turks entered the Aegean to begin large-scale naval and air exercises. The oceanographic vessel, Candarli, reached the Lesbos area Thursday. Its mission is to set the stage for seismic drilling to be undertaken by an American firm in about two weeks.

"The tension has somewhat subsided since we have no serious objections to an oceanographic ship in international waters," said a Greek diplomat. "But we will not tolerate the Turks conducting seismic drilling. We will not yield one inch," he added.

Greece discovered oil off Thassos island in the eastern Aegean earlier this year. The find is expected to provide Greece's annual needs of nine million tons when refining begins in 1975.

Turkey has been Greece's traditional adversary for centuries following 400 years of Turkish Ottoman occupation which ended in 1827 after a war of independence.

Control Of Crime In America Being Lost By Italian Americans

The New York Times

New York — Control of organized crime in America is passing from Italian Americans to a rising new black and Hispanic Mafia, according to Francis A. J. Ianni, an anthropologist who has been studying organized crime.

In his new book, "Black Mafia," just published, Dr. Ianni, director of the Horace Mann-Lincoln Institute at Columbia University Teachers College, describes organized crime as "an integral part of our economic lives" that performs services demanded by society.

Face To Change

His other conclusions include the following: —In the next decade Italian Americans will either relinquish their hold on the organized crime business or be forced out, and as this occurs the character of organized crime in America will change.

—Italian-controlled crime characterized by a strong sense of family and kinship will change to domination by blacks and Puerto Ricans whose kinship is largely formed in boyhood gangs, nurtured in prisons and profoundly influenced by the rising tide of minority protests and militancy in this country.

—Blacks will largely control the gambling and numbers apparatuses in urban areas as well as prostitution; Puerto Ricans will also dabble in gambling, in the peripheral sale of drugs, in theft and in the fencing of stolen goods, and Cubans will, through their Latin American-Miami "Cuban connection," dominate the drug-peddling scene.

'Ethnic Succession'

Except for this Cuban control over the drug scene, which Dr. Ianni concludes is already widespread and sophisticated, virtually all other phases of organized crime will be controlled by blacks in a natural phenomenon "marking the process of ethnic succession."

"It has always been the ethnic group at the bottom of the ladder which uses crime as the way to societal acceptance," he said.

"First it was the Irish, then the Jews. Now it

Frelimo, Portugal To Open Talks

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (UPI) — African guerrillas who have fought a 10-year war of independence in Mozambique agreed Sunday to open discussions with Portuguese authorities on immediate self-determination for the colony. Samora Machel, the military leader of the 10,000-member Frelimo (Front for the Liberation of Mozambique) rebel movement, told a news conference that discussions between the two sides would begin this week in the Zambian capital of Lusaka.

The African guerrilla leader emphasized, however, that Frelimo would not discuss the question of independence itself, but merely how this could be achieved in the shortest possible time.

"We are not going to discuss independence with the Portuguese," Machel said. "That is our inalienable right. Our position on that is clear. We are going to discuss the mechanics of independence."

Portugal has offered to observe a cease-fire with rebels in all its African territories while the question of possible independence was discussed.

Until Sunday's announcement, Frelimo has been the most intransigent of all the groups, believing a military victory in the bush was possible.

"If the guerrillas go on fighting we will have to wipe them out," Razak told a public rally a few hours after his return from Peking. "But we do not like to kill them."

"If they stop fighting we will let them, as we did in Sarawak earlier this year, come back into society and take part in politics, business and all daily activities."

Soviet Law Forbids Data Bankers Need

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet state secrets act forbids American bankers from obtaining the credit information they say is required for the big loans Russia wants from the United States, The Associated Press has learned.

A Council of Ministers decree prohibits any Soviet official from revealing the data normally needed to back up the request for a loan.

This includes the nation's hard currency reserves, its gold reserves and its output of gold and other precious metals.

These figures are published on a monthly basis by most Western countries.

Though existence of such a Soviet secrets act had been presumed, its details had never been confirmed before.

Representatives of the U.S. Export-Import Bank, which finances trade with the Soviet Union, reportedly have not been told by Soviet officials that the information they sought was forbidden by law from being disclosed.

The Soviets, in their meetings with the Americans, have argued instead that security for loans to Russia is guaranteed by the strength of the Soviet economy, and that hard currency reserves are irrelevant.

Some Soviet officials have replied that "it's not our custom" to provide such data.

Custom or no, the decree is quite specific, and the law provides for prison sentences for violators.

The decree listing "state secrets whose divulgence is punished by law" was adopted by the Council of Ministers April 29, 1956. It is decree No. 556 of that year.

The first nine paragraphs deal with military secrets — mobilization plans, training, anti-aircraft defense and operational plans.

Paragraphs 10-17 fall under the heading of proscribed "information of an economic character."

Paragraph 11 forbids revelation of "production capacities, plans for production of precious and rare non-ferrous metals and reports about the fulfillment of

Social Security Head Criticizes System

(c) Washington Star-News

Washington — Social Security has a lot of critics — more now, apparently, than in many years. And one of the critics these days is the man who runs the system — James B. Cardwell.

A career civil servant, he was appointed a year and a half ago commissioner of the Social Security Administration.

Cardwell argues that the system has reached a critical size without a firm decision by policymakers on what it is meant to achieve.

No Direction

In his view, Social Security is an enormous economic machine without direction:

"You assume that we already know what we want of the system," he said in a recent interview. "I'm just saying that we don't."

"The theory of the system, as I've always viewed it, is that it was intended to provide insurance against lost earnings in later life. The original concept was that it would never provide the full level of benefit insurance or protection that one would need at that stage, but that there would be some augmentation by a second tier — a private pension, personal savings. But there is no longer a strong consensus that that is what is expected of the system."

Batters Pockethooks

Instead, Cardwell continued, "Social Security is continually tempting people with the thought that it will provide for them — which it won't — while continually battering the pocketbooks of the younger generation who must support it."

"The pressure from the beneficiaries is to raise benefits as they're struck by the cost of living, and you have to be sympathetic with them . . . the poorer you are the more difficult it is. Retired people are obviously feeling that pinch."

Hike Was Hasty

Cardwell also feels that the latest "But this rapid rise in the wage base has created a new pressure in the other direction. It's a pressure that is heard in the voice of the middle-income worker . . . (who) feels uncertain whether he's going — to continue to be taxed on a higher and higher amount . . . and that group, I think, is beginning to grumble."

Cardwell also feels that the latest

20% hike in benefits, the full impact of which will be welcomed by 2.9 million retirees in July, was a hastily researched measure.

"I thought it was an awfully big bite at one time. I think the Congress may have rationalized it as a combination of things. There had been an unattended absolute rise in the cost of living, and they thought they were patching that up . . . the commissioner said.

The picture for the taxpayer is gloomy and getting gloomier. Even with automatic increases geared to a 3% rise in the cost of living, it appears, from past performance, that Congress will rely on increases in benefits to help incumbents in election years.

'Up and Up and Up'

"This is the way Congress has managed the system since beginning," Cardwell said, "liberalizing benefits throughout, and at the same time raising the tax rate and the wage base . . . the same provision that escalates the benefits base with the cost of living does the same thing with the wage base. They will both go up and up and up. That's the question, whether the political system will be patient long enough to test this theory of an even movement indexed to the cost of living."

But, Cardwell noted, applying fresh thinking to an established program that has become politically vulnerable is more difficult than ever. The system's minimum benefit, however, should be thoroughly examined, he added.

Equal Tax Spread

Another reform Cardwell backs is a redistribution of the load of payroll taxes throughout the year, simply to spread the individual's payroll tax over 52 equal amounts.

He regards the system as viable — for the present, but issues a strong warning against the trends that have come with constant liberalization of benefits.

"I think it would be a terrible mistake," Cardwell said, "for the society to condition its current generation now coming into the labor market not to worry about its old age or have the attitude the government will take care of you. That in itself is a fantasy. The government is not going to take care of you. It's still taxes."

Poll: Nixon Rating Low On Handling Economy

By LOUIS HARRIS

Somewhat shunted into the background by the controversy surrounding Watergate is the fact that the Nixon administration is in deep trouble with the American people on the domestic economic front. By 82-15%, the public gives Nixon negative marks on the "way he has handled the economy," the lowest rating on this score for the President since he has occupied the White House.

The magnitude of the loss of confidence in administration economic policies can perhaps best be measured by the 60-20% majority who feel Nixon policies are "doing more harm than good."

A nationwide cross section of 1,555 households was asked between May 4 and 7, as they have been asked before:

"Do you feel the economic policies of the Nixon administration are doing more good than harm or more harm than good?"

The biggest single criticism leveled against this administration in its relations with business is that "it has given too many advantages, made too many special deals with business," volunteered by 38% of the public. A steel worker in McKeesport, Pa., put it this way: "Why, Nixon and the Republicans have just about handed over everything to big business and left us with next to nothing. Their idea is 'if in doubt, always give big business the break.'"

Others were more specific. A retail merchant in Canton, Ohio, said: "That deal with ITT was typical. They gave ITT everything they wanted in a straight fix. Just pro-big business all the way." In Encino, Calif., a retired man on a pension added: "That steal on raising milk prices after they gave some big campaign contributions was one of the rawest deals in behalf of business ever made in this country."

The illegal campaign contributions of business in the 1972 election campaign were cited by another 20% as evidence of the administration's close ties with corporations. As a 24-year-old pattern maker in Lowell, Massachusetts, put it: "Big business just bought up this administration and Nixon personally dollar by dollar with all those secret campaign contributions. Big business owns them now."

The increased profits of the oil companies during the energy shortage is yet another major reason volunteered by 15% of the public. As an engineer in Monroe, Michigan, said: "Look, you don't have to go further than those big profits being piled up by the oil companies as a result of the energy shortage. That's being 'too close to big business.'

as far as my pocketbook is concerned."

Other views expressed are that "the Republicans have always favored the big companies and the rich man" and "wages were kept under control, but profits never were" during the rapid rise in inflation.

As a consequence of these suspicions and doubts, a sizeable 69% of the public is now prepared to say that the Nixon administration has been "too easy" in its dealings with big business. The cross section was asked:

"Do you feel the Nixon administration has been too tough on big business, too easy, or about right in the way it has treated big business?"

It was not unexpected that, when asked about the future direction federal policies ought to take toward big business, a substantial 71% opted for "tougher" measures. People were asked:

"Do you feel the Nixon administration should be tougher on big business, easier, or treat big business the way it has in the past?"

Given their low estimate of the job done by the Republican administration in bringing the economy out of the throes of recession, voters this fall are likely going to be a receptive mood toward Democratic campaign charges that the Nixon administration has been too closely linked with special business interests. It is almost a certainty that this familiar Democratic refrain will become a standard theme once more in Democratic campaigning across the country both this year and in 1976.

Criticized

The biggest single criticism leveled against this administration in its relations with business is that "it has given too many advantages, made too many special deals with business," volunteered by 38% of the public. A steel worker in McKeepern, Pa., put it this way: "Why, Nixon and the Republicans have just about handed over everything to big business and left us with next to nothing. Their idea is 'if in doubt, always give big business the break.'"

Others were more specific. A retail merchant in Canton, Ohio, said: "That deal with ITT was typical. They gave ITT everything they wanted in a straight fix. Just pro-big business all the way." In Encino, Calif., a retired man on a pension added: "That steal on raising milk prices after they gave some big campaign contributions was one of the rawest deals in behalf of business ever made in this country."

The illegal campaign contributions of business in the 1972 election campaign were cited by another 20% as evidence of the administration's close ties with corporations. As a 24-year-old pattern maker in Lowell, Massachusetts, put it: "Big business just bought up this administration and Nixon personally dollar by dollar with all those secret campaign contributions. Big business owns them now."

The increased profits of the oil companies during the energy shortage is yet another major reason volunteered by 15% of the public. As an engineer in Monroe, Michigan, said: "Lood, you don't have to go further than those big profits being piled up by the oil companies as a result of the energy shortage. That's being 'too close to big business,'

Young Pilot 'Sprays Anything You Can Spray From A Plane'

Bartley (AP) — Youthful Mike Sides of Bartley doesn't think that aerial spraying is a thrilling occupation. He looks at it as a business to the farmers of the area.

The 22-year-old pilot sprays herbicides, insecticides and fertilizers along with fungicides. In fact, he said, "we spray anything that you can spray from a plane."

He uses a Pawnee and an Old Champ in his spraying and in a good day we can spray more than 1,000 acres of land. We use automatic markers and flaggers on the ground."

Asked if he ever had sprayed the wrong field, Sides replied, "No, not yet. Since I was raised in this area and Dad and I did a lot of custom work, I know pretty well where all the places are."

He started flying at the age of 15 when his father, Eldon, became interested. Both trained at McCook and got their commercial pilot licenses.

Asked about chemicals, he replied that they are tight.

The 2, 4-Ds and Parathion are hard to get, but the real shocker is that the cost has doubled.

"Farmers realize things have gone up and they must protect their crops to make money, so we haven't seen much drawing back when price is mentioned," he said.

Though prices and shortages have cropped up in the business, Sides said he thought there was a lot of potential in aerial spraying in the next 20 to 25 years.

And you may enroll now without having to see a company salesman. All you need do is mail the Enrollment Form below together with your first month's premium. It's that easy!

This plan provides the extra protection you need to help meet the high cost of hospitalization today.

Anyone who has been in the hospital recently knows ordinary hospital insurance—even Medicare—simply may not cover everything. You may have to pay many "extras" out of your own pocket—and it can add up to hundreds of dollars in a frighteningly short time.

But even if your ordinary hospital insurance covers most of your medical and hospital bills, what about the bills that keep piling up at home?

If you, as husband, father and breadwinner are suddenly hospitalized, your income stops, your expenses go up. Even if you have some kind of "salary insurance" it probably won't come close to replacing your full-time pay.

If your wife is suddenly hospitalized, who will look after the family, do the laundry, the marketing, the cleaning? You may have to take time off from your job—or hire full-time domestic help—to take care of things at home.

If one of your children is suddenly hospitalized, you will certainly spare no expense. You wouldn't even think of the cost.

If you're over 65 and are suddenly hospitalized, Medicare, fine as it is, won't pay all of your hospital expenses or any household expenses. Most Senior Citizens won't want to use up savings it may have taken a lifetime to accumulate...they want to retain their independence and not become a "burden" to their children or community.

Without enough protection, a hospital emergency may leave you with savings gone, debts you can't pay, peace of mind shattered—even your recovery can be seriously delayed by money worries!

Regardless of your age, regardless of your health, you are eligible to enroll in this plan.

Now, with the protection of The Doctors Hospital Plan you can avoid these worries because you can be assured of cash benefits when you or any insured member of your family are hospitalized. No matter how large your family, no matter what your age or occupation and without any qualifications whatsoever, you can choose any of the four low-cost plans shown at right to meet your family's special needs.

In addition to the hospital benefits, you get all these valuable "extra" features:

Every month you stay with this plan, more benefits build up.

17 IMPORTANT QUESTIONS ANSWERED ABOUT THE DOCTORS HOSPITAL PLAN WITH INCREASED BENEFITS

1. Can I collect even if I carry other health insurance?

Yes. The Doctors Hospital Plan pays you in addition to any other company or government health insurance you carry—individual, group—even Medicare! Of course, you may have only one policy with Physicians Mutual.

2. How do I qualify?

Your only qualification is to complete and mail your Enrollment Form with $1 for your first month.

3. Which plan should I choose?

You may choose any of four low-cost plans—you can actually select the exact plan that suits you best!

If yours is a young, growing family, we recommend the ALL-FAMILY PLAN. Covers you, your wife and all your dependent children (including future additions) between 3 months and 21 years of age who are unmarried and live at home.

If you are the only parent living with your children, we suggest the ONE-PARENT FAMILY PLAN. Covers you and all your dependent children between 3 months and 21 years who are unmarried and live at home.

If you have no children as yet, or if you have children who are grown and no longer dependent on you, you will want the HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN.

Or, if you are living by yourself, choose the INDIVIDUAL PLAN.

4. When does my policy go into force?

Your policy is issued immediately, just as soon as we receive your Enrollment Form. From that day on, you are covered for accidents 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, anywhere in the world. Coverage for new sickness does not begin until your policy is 30 days old. This is a one-time-only waiting period. What's more, you collect for every day you spend in the hospital for a covered sickness or accident. We don't make you wait 3 or 4 days after you enter the hospital before you can begin getting benefits.

5. How much can I be paid?

Each plan has its own "Aggregate of Benefits," what we call the maximum.

For example, under the INDIVIDUAL PLAN, the maximum is $6,666.66—$19.04 daily when you are hospitalized.

Under the HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN, the maximum is $10,000.00—$19.04 daily when you are hospitalized; $14.28 daily when your wife is hospitalized.

Under the ALL-FAMILY PLAN, the maximum is $13,333.33—$19.04 daily when you are hospitalized; $14.28 daily when your wife is hospitalized; $9.52 daily for each insured child hospitalized.

Under the ONE-PARENT FAMILY PLAN, the maximum is $10,000.00—$19.04 daily when you are hospitalized; $9.52 daily for each insured child hospitalized.

6. Are any additional benefits included in The Doctors Hospital Plan?

Yes. You receive a 50% increase in cash benefits if you or any insured family member is hospitalized for cancer (including Leukemia and Hodgkin's Disease), or heart attack (acute myocardial infarction, coronary thrombosis and coronary occlusion).

7. What are the "double" cash benefits?

If you and your wife are both hospitalized at the same time due to accidents and are covered by the ALL-FAMILY or HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN, you get double cash benefits. You get twice the amount—$66.64 daily!

8. Does this plan pay in any hospital?

You will collect cash benefits for confinement in any lawfully operated hospital of your own choice. Confinement in nursing homes, convalescent or extended-care or self-care units of hospitals, is not included.

If you have no children as yet, or if you have children who are grown and no longer dependent on you, you will want the HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN.

Or, if you are living by yourself, choose the INDIVIDUAL PLAN.

9. Do I collect even if I go to a federal hospital?

Yes. You will receive one-half the applicable daily benefits for up to 4 full weeks for any one sickness or accident that puts you in a Federal hospital. And if the same condition puts you back in the hospital after you have resumed your normal activities for 6 months, you are eligible to collect again.

10. What if someone in my family has had a health problem that may occur again?

Even if one of your insured family members has suffered from chronic ailments in the past, pre-existing conditions are covered after the policy has been in force for one year.

11. Will I collect for job-related conditions even though I may receive Workmen's Compensation?

Yes. Even conditions for which you receive Workmen's Compensation or Employers Liability Law benefits are covered. You will receive one-half the applicable daily benefits for up to 4 weeks for any job-related condition that puts you in the hospital. And after you resume your normal activities for 6 months, you become eligible to collect again if the same condition puts you back in the hospital.

12. Will I collect benefits for mental disorder?

Yes. You will receive one-half the applicable daily benefits for up to 4 full weeks for mental disorder that puts you or any insured family member in the hospital. And, after you return to your normal activities for 6 months, if the same condition puts you back in the hospital, you are eligible to collect again.

13. What conditions aren't covered?

Pregnancy or any consequence thereof (unless you have the ALL-FAMILY or the HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN), alcoholism or drug addiction.

14. Can I drop out any time? Can you drop me?

We guarantee to renew your policy for as long as you live and pay your premiums...regardless of your age, your health or how many claims you have. What's more, we cannot change your monthly premium for this protection unless we do the same on all policies of this type in your entire state. You, of course, can drop your policy on any renewal date.

15. How do I claim my cash benefits?

With your policy, you will receive a simple, easy-to-use Claim Form, which you send directly to the company when you want to claim your cash benefits.

16. How much does my first month cost?

Only $1.00, regardless of your age, the size of your family or the plan you select. After the first month, if you are under 65, you pay: $5.25 a month for the INDIVIDUAL PLAN; $8.95 a month for the HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN; $10.95 a month for the ALL-FAMILY PLAN; $7.95 a month for the ONE-PARENT FAMILY PLAN. (When you become 65, or if you are over 65 now, premiums increase. See rates in box above.)

17. Why should I enroll right now?

Because an unexpected sickness or accident could strike without warning—and you will not be covered until your policy is in force. Remember, if for any reason you change your mind, you may return your policy within 10 days and your $1.00 will be refunded immediately.

Now $1 enrolls you for the first month regardless of your age or the size of your family.

Choose the plan that suits you best:

What's more, you collect for every day you spend in the hospital for a covered sickness or accident. We don't make you wait 3 or 4 days after you enter the hospital before you can begin getting benefits.

4 days after you enter the hospital before you can begin getting benefits. And you'll collect for as long and for as many times as you are hospitalized, up to the maximum (Aggregate of Benefits) of the plan you select!

matter which plan you choose: When your policy is issued your insurance provides from $6,666.66 to $13,333.33, depending upon the plan you select. This is known as the "Aggregate of Benefits" in insurance language—what we call your maximum cash benefits.

Then, every month your policy is in force, a sum equal to your regular monthly premium (including your first monthly premium) is actually added to your maximum—your maximum grows each month! Similarly, when you have claims, your benefits are subtracted from the maximum.

Renewal provision. We cannot drop you or raise your rates because of age, health or number of claims.

Your policy is Guaranteed Renewable for as long as you live and pay your premiums when due. We cannot refuse to renew your policy simply because you're another year older, there's been a change in your health or you've had a number of claims. Furthermore, the premium for your policy cannot be changed unless we do the same on all policies of this type in your entire state.

The benefits you collect are yours to keep or to spend.

The cash benefits you receive from The Doctors Hospital Plan are all in addition to any other company or government insurance benefits you receive—hospital, major medical, or even Medicare. Every cent is paid direct to you unless we tell you otherwise. Spend it, use it, any way you please, without having to account for this cash to anyone. Naturally, we can issue only one policy to you on a guaranteed issue basis. If you are already a Physicians Mutual policyholder and would like information about additional coverage available to you, please write for details.

If both you and your wife are insured, increased benefits are available.

If both you and your wife are insured by The Doctors Hospital Plan, you also get the following increased benefits. After your policy is 10 months old, maternity or any consequence of maternity will be covered. And should both you and your wife be hospitalized at the same time due to accidents, each of you will collect double the regular benefits we would ordinarily pay.

Your policy is backed by the insurance company run by doctors since 1902.

Your policy is backed by the resources, integrity and reputation of Physicians Mutual Insurance Company. From its inception in 1902 until 1962, the company specialized in health insurance for physicians, surgeons and dentists exclusively. (Its Board of Directors is still composed entirely of respected members of the medical and insurance professions.) Today the company's policies protect over 1,000,000 Americans from all walks of life direct-by-mail. In fact, last year alone the company paid policyholders of various plans some $44 million in benefits. Incorporated in Nebraska, with headquarters in Omaha, Physicians Mutual is licensed to do business in your state.

Menne Wins Kemper

...Defeats Heard In Playoff

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — It was a victory for the little guy in one of the game's biggest tournaments.

"It makes everything worthwhile. It makes life worthwhile. It's something I'd dreamed about ever since I was a little kid," longshot Bob Menne said Sunday after his dramatic, sudden death playoff victory over Jerry Heard in the Kemper Open Golf Tournament.

Menne, a career struggler and a non-winner in his six years on the pro tour, drilled home a 30-foot birdie putt on the first extra hole to secure a whopping $50,000 first prize, writing an end to the money worries that had plagued him for the last three years.

"If I have to lose," said Heard. "I'm glad it was to Bob and not somebody like (Jack) Nicklaus who's got all the money he'll ever need."

Menne, who had to qualify on Monday to make his way into this "designated tournament," one of the events in which all the game's leading players were required to compete, came into the tournament with just enough cash to make it to the next stop on the tour.

"It takes some heat off," said Menne, who hadn't made expenses in the last 3½ years on the tour.

Menne, 32, had to birdie the 72nd hole to catch the front-running Heard with a 270 total, a whopping 18-under-par on the 7,085-yard Quail Hollow Country Club course, an accommodating layout that gave up some of the lowest scores of the year on the tour.

Menne had a final round 67, five under par, and Heard, a three-stroke leader when the day's play started, took a final round 70.

The easy-going Heard, winner of more than $300,000 in his last three seasons, had a three-stroke lead at the start of the day's play but could do no better than a final-round 70 and then tie at the end of 72 holes.

Controversial Dave Hill, who came from far back with a brilliant seven-under-par 65, was tied for second.

Lee Trevino also challenged from time to time in this event in which all leading players are required to compete. His last-round 69 left him alone in fourth at 272.

Billy Casper and J. C. Sneed each had a 69 and were tied 273 in the tournament that produced some of the lowest scoring of the season on the pro tour.

Australian Bruce Crampton and Hubert Green, a two-time winner this year, followed at 276. Crampton had a last-round 69. Green a par-72 in this tournament that offered $250,000 in total prizes.

Jack Nicklaus never really got in it and had a closing 70-278. Johnny Miller, the U.S. Open king and a five-time winner this year, had a 70-280, 10 shots back. Masters champion Gary Player had a 72-278.

Sam Snead, a 62-year-old marvel from another golfing era, was the only man in the final field of 72 who was over-par for the tournament. His score was 76-289, just one over par.

Arnold Palmer and Tom Weiskopf failed to qualify for the final two rounds.

Menne, 32, had come close only once before in his six-year pro career. That was in the National Airlines Open of 1970, when he lost sudden-death playoff to Trevino.

He won a little over $20,000 that season, but hadn't made expenses since then. In fact, his total winnings for 1971, 1972, 1973 and the first half of this season were less than $30,000, much less than expenses.

Colleen Kindig of Hastings, also representing the NTC, won the women's division long jump with a leap of 18-6.

Patty Driscoll of the Colorado Gold Track Club won three events in the women's division mile, two mile and the 880.

Sue Hyde of the Lincoln South Track Club won both the long jump and the 100-yard dash in the 10 and 11-year-old bracket.

Menne Wins Kemper

...Defeats Heard In Playoff

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — It was a victory for the little guy in one of the game's biggest tournaments.

"It makes everything worthwhile. It makes life worthwhile. It's something I'd dreamed about ever since I was a little kid," longshot Bob Menne said Sunday after his dramatic, sudden death playoff victory over Jerry Heard in the Kemper Open Golf Tournament.

Menne, a career struggler and a non-winner in his six years on the pro tour, drilled home a 30-foot birdie putt on the first extra hole to secure a whopping, $50,000 first prize, writing an end to the money worries that have plagued him for the last three years.

"If I have to lose," said Heard, "I'm glad it was to Bob and not somebody like (Jack) Nicklaus who's got all the money he'll ever need."

Menne, who had to qualify on Monday to make his way into this "designated tournament," one of the events in which all the game's leading players were required to compete, came into the tournament with just enough cash to make it to the next stop on the tour.

"It takes some heat off," said Menne, who hadn't made expenses in the last 3½ years on the tour.

Menne, 32, had to birdie the 72nd hole to catch the front-running Heard with a 270 total, a whopping 18-under-par on the 7,085-yard Quail Hollow Country Club course, an accommodating layout that gave up some of the lowest scores of the year on the tour.

Menne had a final round 67, five under par, and Heard, a three-stroke leader when the day's play started, took a final round 70.

The easy-going Heard, winner of more than $300,000 in his last three seasons, had a three-stroke lead at the start of the day's play but could do no better than a final-round 70 and then tie at the end of 72 holes.

Controversial Dave Hill, who came from far back with a brilliant seven-under-par 65, was tied for the lead at one stage and finished just one stroke out of the playoffs at 271.

Lee Trevino also challenged from time to time in this event in which all leading players are required to compete. His last-round 69 left him alone in fourth at 272.

Billy Casper and J. C. Snead each had a 69 and were tied 273 in the tournament that produced some of the lowest scoring of the season on the pro tour.

Australians Bruce Crampton and Hubert Green, a two-time winner this year, followed at 276. Crampton had a last-round 69, Green a par-72 in this tournament that offered $250,000 in total prizes.

Jack Nicklaus never really got it and had a closing 70—278. Johnny Miller, the U.S. Open king and a five-time winner this year, had a 70—280, 10 shots back. Masters champion Gary Player had a 72—278.

Sam Snead, a 62-year-old marvel from another golfing era, was the only man in the final field of 72 who was over-par for the tournament. His score was 76-289, just one over par.

Arnold Palmer and Tom Weiskopf failed to qualify for the final two rounds.

Menne, 32, had come close only once before in his six-year pro career. That was in the National Airlines Open of 1970, when he lost a sudden-death playoff to Trevino.

He won a little over $20,000 that season, but hadn't made expenses since then. In fact, his total winnings for 1971, 1972, 1973 and the first half of this season were less than $30,000, much less than expenses.

Eagle Cancels Sprint Races

By VIRGIL PARKER

Sprint car races, scheduled for Eagle Raceways Sunday night, were canceled at the last minute when just nine drivers showed up for the competition.

"I'm now a firm believer in the power of persuasion," Eagle Raceway operator Harvey Kropp admits. "The drivers are being talked out of racing for us. We had a firm commitment from a lot of drivers, but they just didn't show."

The Eagle management has had trouble since the beginning of the racing season when the Nebraska Modified Racing Association voted to support a Wednesday night program at the competing Midwest oval.

"There were 29 sprint cars at Hastings Friday night and I talked to them about coming here," Kropp said, "and was left with the impression they would. But somebody got to them and talked them out of showing. Not a one was here."

Kropp had announced earlier in the week that top Lincoln driver Lonnie Jensen would race Sunday at Eagle.

"Yesterday I heard he wasn't coming and tried to call him, but he wouldn't answer my call. I don't know what to think."

Omaha Gathers Regatta Victory

Malcolm — Henry Davis of Omaha won the annual Firewater Regatta at Branched Oak Lake ahead of fellow Omahan Wolf Giehart.

Paul Festerson of Omaha finished third while Stan Traub of Omaha, and Hal Horn of Lincoln placed fourth and fifth respectively, for the two day meet which ended Sunday.

Eagle started its season Saturday night with a stock car program.

"I think that opened things up for us a little, anyway," Kropp observed. "We expect that to grow. We'll have the stocks out here again next Saturday night."

Kropp said the canceled program "costs us a bundle. In addition to paying off the help and tow money to the drivers who came, we had a lot of money invested in advertising."

"I don't know what we'll do about the sprints. We'll have the stocks Saturday and then decide about our next step."

Rankin Wins Baltimore Meet

BALTIMORE (AP) — Judy Rankin was declared the winner of the $40,000 Baltimore Golf Championship Sunday after heavy rain washed out the scheduled final round of the 54-hole event.

Mrs. Rankin led by one stroke after each of the first two rounds, and earned $5,700 after successfully defending a tournament title for the first time.

Her score of 144 was two strokes under par for the municipal Pine Ridge course.

He had been undergoing treatments at the University of Utah Medical Center since last December.

In 19 years of campaigning, Lewis' mounts won more than $4 million dollars in purses.

In 1955, Lewis was the top apprentice at Santa Anita and Hollywood Park, both in California. In his first full year in the irons, he brought in 109 winners.

A year later, he upped that to 126.

Lewis mounts won three consecutive runnings of the Lady Sponsors Stakes at Ak-Sar-Ben.

Jockey Lewis Succumbs

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Jockey Dan Lewis, 35, died here Sunday morning after a six-month battle against leukemia.

A native of Massillon, Ohio, Lewis had been racing out of El Paso, Tex., for the past several years, and was a leading rider at tracks in Omaha, Chicago, Denver, Los Angeles, Albuquerque and other southern and western tracks.

Lewis won riding crowns at Ak-Sar-Ben in Omaha, Neb.; Centennial Park, Littleton, Colo., and at Sunland Park, La Mesa and Albuquerque, all in New Mexico.

Perry Wins 9th Straight

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Gaylord Perry, who has not lost a game since opening day, picked up his ninth straight victory Sunday by tossing a five-hitter in pitching the Cleveland Indians to a 5-2 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Perry, the first pitcher in the majors to notch nine wins this season, got all the runs he needed on homers by Leron Lee, Oscar Gamble and Dave Duncan.

He struck out five and walked six in going the route for the ninth time this season.

The Royals snapped Perry's scorelessinning streak at 22 in the first inning when Fred Patek walked, took second on a sacrifice and scored on John Mayberry's two-out single to left.

Lee, who drove in five runs with a pair of homers Saturday, belted his third homer of the season in the first inning and the Indians chased losing pitcher Paul Splittorff in a three-run, fourth-inning uprising featuring back-to-back homers by Gamble and Duncan.

The Royals added their second run with two outs in the seventh. Richie Scheinblum singled, the first hit off Perry since the first inning, pinch hitter Tony Solaita and Fran Healy singled home Scheinblum.

Rightfielder Charlie Spikes snuffed out a potential Kansas City rally in the eighth. With runners on first and second and one out, Hal McRae singled to right and Amos Otis, trying to score from second, was cut down at the plate on a throw by Spikes.

TIME OUTBy Steve Gillispie
Star Sports WriterNWU Keeps NIAC All-Sports Trophy

Nebraska Wesleyan won its third straight Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference all-sports title with 39½ points, edging Doane by 1½ points.

There was a real scramble for third place with Hastings earning that position with 26½ points followed by Concordia with 25 and Midland with 24½. Dana was sixth with 12½ points.

Doane had team champions in five sports — football, indoor and outdoor track, tennis and golf. NWU was the conference champion in three — cross country, wrestling and baseball, while Hastings had the NIAC basketball title.

Sport	NWU	Doane	Hastings	Concordia	Midland	Dana
Football	5	6	3½	3½	3½	12½
Cross Country	6	5	2	4	3	0
Basketball	3½	5	6	1	3½	—
Wrestling	6	3	0	4	5	2
Indoor track	2½	3	2	1	1½	½
Outdoor track	2½	3	2	1½	1	½
Tennis	5	6	4	2	3	1
Golf	3	6	4	5	2	1
Baseball	6	1	3	4½	2	1
Total	39½	38	26½	25	24½	12½

What proved to be the Tigers' downfall was baseball, where Doane finished last and only earned one point. The Plainsmen won six, which pulled them from a 37-33½ deficit to keep the trophy.

Titles were successfully defended by Doane in football and tennis, Hastings in basketball and NWU in wrestling and baseball. Dana and the Plainsmen actually tied for last year's baseball title.

The first all-sports title NWU won was "unofficial" by conference standards and acceptance, but the last two were sanctioned by the NIAC.

C-Club Purchased All-Sports Trophy

The C-Club of Concordia purchased a traveling trophy for the all-sports championship with each yearly winner allowed to keep the trophy in its trophy case as long as it won.

There is room at the base of the trophy for the annual winning school to put its name and what year it won.

The points awarded in track are split between the indoor and outdoor meets because that is the only sport where the NIAC recognizes two champions.

Football, basketball and baseball champions are determined by games, while tournaments and meets determine team winners in the other sports.

Ironically all three team champions in sports decided by games went unbeaten. Doane's football team was 4-0-1, Hastings' basketball team 10-0 and NWU's baseball team was also 10-0.

The biggest upset probably happened in cross country where heavily favored and two-time defending champion Concordia finished third behind winner NWU and second-place Doane.

Two coaches had teams in two different sports win conference titles — Doane's Ray Best in football and golf and NWU's Ron Bachman in wrestling and baseball.

Dr. Milt Evans and senior Greg Kalleymen had a lot to do with the Plainsmen retaining their all-sports trophy. Evans, who coaches the NWU tennis team, has brought the team from last place in the NIAC to second in three years.

Kalleymen, despite being very sick on the day of the conference meet, placed third. The Omaha Benson graduate vomited several times during the day, but still played.

His third-place finish is credited by his teammates as being the difference between NWU being second and third or fourth in the NIAC meet.

CHICAGO (AP) — Jose Cardenal's three-run homer off Los Angeles relief ace Mike Marshall with two out in the seventh inning lifted the Chicago Cubs to a 7-6 victory over the Dodgers Sunday.

Marshall, who was making his 34th appearance of the season, retired the first two batters in the seventh but then walked Jerry Morales and Billy Williams before Cardenal drove his fourth homer of the season into the left field bleachers, putting the Cubs in front 6-4.

After Cardenal's homer, Rick Monday doubled and scored what proved to be the winning run on a single by Carmen Fanzone, chasing Marshall, who suffered his third loss in five decisions.

The Dodgers, seeking their fifth straight victory, had taken a 4-3 lead in the sixth on Von Joshua's two-run pinch single.

Atlanta's Robinson Helps Rout Expos

MONTREAL (AP) — Craig Robinson drove in three runs with a double and a single Sunday and the Atlanta Braves routed the Montreal Expos 9-0.

Robinson, who entered the game hitting .221, sparked a three-run burst in the sixth inning when he cracked a two-run double to score Marty Perez, who had singled, and Paul Casanova, who had walked.

Winning pitcher Buzz Capra, 4-2, who scattered 10 Montreal hits, then singled to chase Expos' starter Steve Rogers, 7-4. Robinson scored when shortstop Tim Foli booted Ralph Garr's grounder.

The Braves jumped on reliever Don DeMola for three more runs in the seventh. Rowland Office led off with his second home run of the baseball season. Mike Lum doubled and Frank Tepedino singled and Robinson drove in Lum with a single. Walks to Capra and Norm Miller forced in the final run of the inning.

LEXINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Englishman Brian Redman charged past fading polesitter Mario Andretti midway through the race Sunday and won the $58,000 Mid-Ohio Formula 5000 auto road race, his fifth straight victory in the series.

Redman, the 1973 Formula 5000 runner-up to South African Jody Scheckter, gunned his Haas Lola T332 past the 1969 Indianapolis 500 winner on the 24th lap and easily beat second-place American Brett Lunger.

The 37-year-old veteran, who averaged 99.023 miles per hour and won by 74 seconds, won for the sixth time in the last eight Formula 5000 races over the last two seasons.

Andretti went out on the 35th lap in the 42-lap race, covering 100.8 miles, over Mid-Ohio's 2.4 miles of twisting asphalt. The little Pennsylvanian's car developed suspension problems.

Redman Wins Homers Boost Yanks Over Minnesota, 11-1

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Three-run homers by former Twin Rick Dempsey and Ron Blomberg and Lou Piniella's solo shot highlighted a seven-run sixth inning Sunday, pacing Mel Stottlemyre and the New York Yankees to an 11-1 victory over Minnesota.

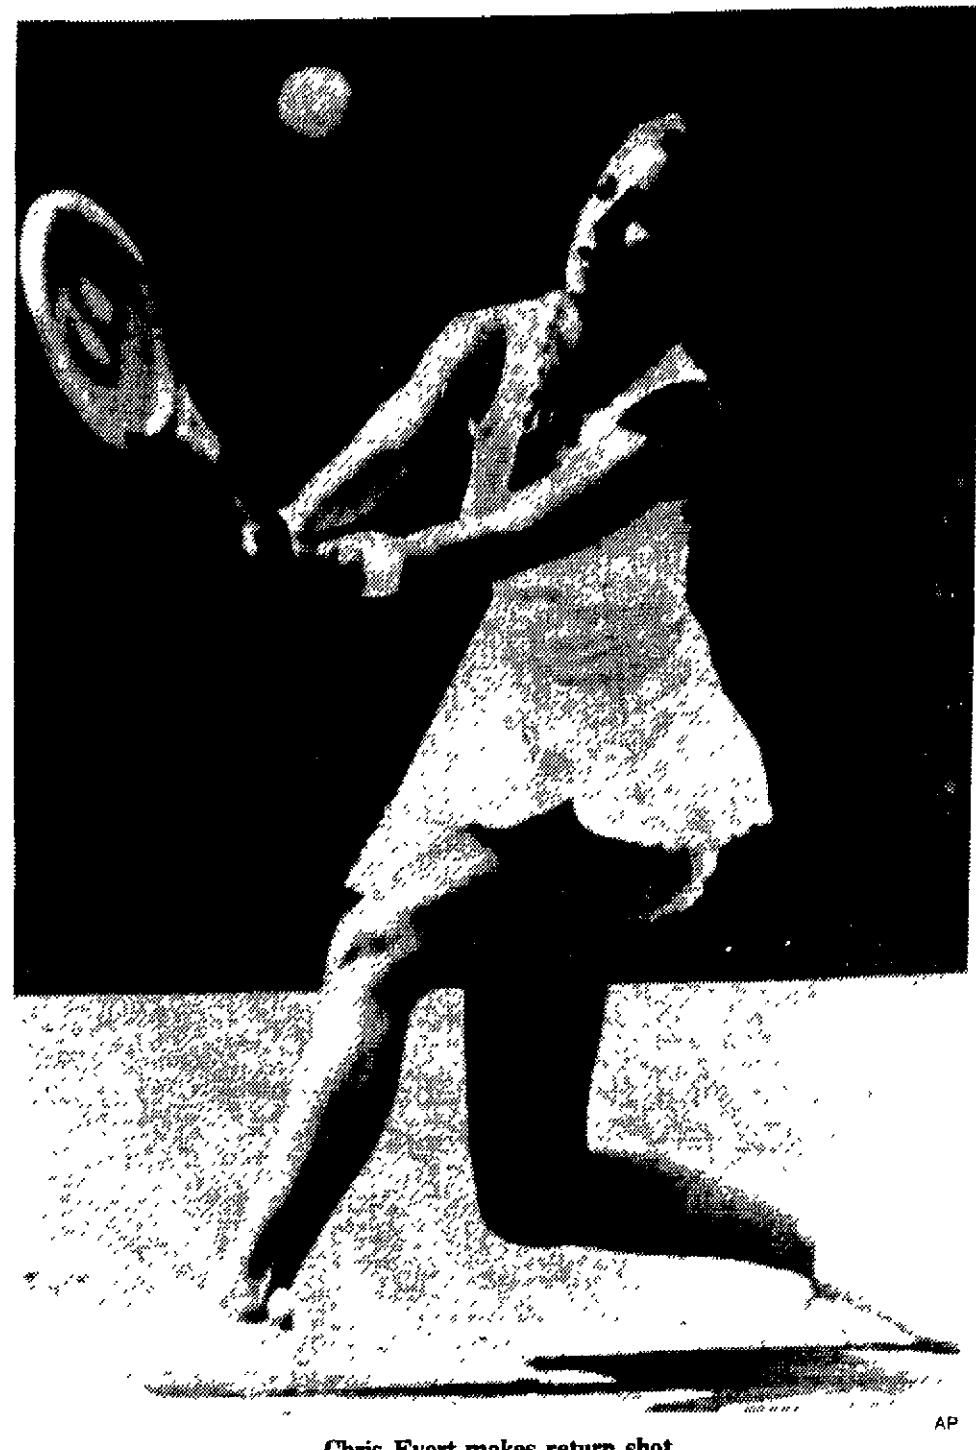

With the Yankees leading 2-0, Piniella led off the inning with his second home run of the season. After Bill Sudakis and Graig Nettles singled, Dempsey hit his second homer off starter Vic Albury.

Bill Butler relieved Albury and was greeted by singles by Jim Mason and Elliott Maddox. Blomberg then hit a 387-foot blast into the right field stands for a 9-0 New York lead.

Stottlemyre, who evened his record at 6-6 and broke a personal five-game losing streak, scattered six hits. Albury, making his first start ever against the Yankees, took his third loss in five decisions. New York added two more runs in the eighth on run-producing singles by Bobby Murcer and Piniella.

Chris Evert makes return shot.

Evert Captures Initial Major International Meet

ROME (AP) — Chris Evert won her first major international title Sunday with an easy 6-3, 6-3 victory over Martina Navratilova in the women's singles final of the Rome Open Tennis Tournament.

However, Stan Smith failed in a bid to become the first American to win the men's championship since Barry McKay in 1960 when he lost to arch-rival Ilie Nastase of Romania.

"I guess it wasn't my day," said Smith after Nastase won 6-2, 6-4, 6-4 and advanced to the final.

Miss Evert, a 19-year-old star from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., also won the women's doubles title with Olga Morozova of the Soviet Union when Helga Masthoff and Heide Orth of West Germany defaulted.

In her singles final, Miss Evert's great consistency and experience were too much for Miss Navratilova, a 17-year-old Czech appearing for the first time in a big international tournament.

Miss Evert played impeccably from the baseline during the 80-minute match, went to the net more often than usual, and ruthlessly exploited her opponent's weaker net play with dead lobs and passing shots that clipped the sidelines.

The two girls drew warm applause in the seventh game of the opening set when they conceded each other a point on dubious line calls.

There were six service breaks in the first set, four for Miss Evert. She broke in the seventh and ninth games, jumping from a 3-3 tie to a 6-3 victory. In the second set, she grabbed a 4-1 lead and went on to win the match.

Smith played what veteran observers here called one of his poorest matches on clay. The match lasted only 85 minutes and was marred by frequent errors and rare winning shots by either player.

Nastase capitalized on Smith's many mistakes but hardly ever hit a winner. He returned the ball to Smith and waited for the American to make an error.

Racer Killed In Accident

MIAMI (UPI) — George "Skip" Walther, brother of Indianapolis car driver Salt Walther, was killed Sunday morning when he was thrown from his power boat in a practice run for the $30,000 Champion Spark Plug unlimited regatta.

Onlookers at Miami Marine Stadium said Walther's "Redman" boat hit a wave and disappeared in a plume of spray, throwing the Dayton, Ohio, driver from the boat.

He was rushed to Jackson Memorial Hospital in Miami where he was pronounced dead on arrival. Doctors said he suffered a skull fracture and massive lacerations of the brain and his arm was severed at the elbow.

USC Takes Two From Pepperdine

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Third baseman Rich Dauer put on an awesome offensive show Sunday as Southern California swept a doubleheader from Pepperdine 4-1 and 12-1 to win the NCAA District 8 baseball playoffs and advance to the College World Series.

Dauer had three hits in four at-bats in the first game, including a double and a run batted in. He came back in the second game to blast two homers and collect eight RBIs.

Southern Cal, the four-time defending NCAA champion, lost Saturday's single game in the best-of-three series to Pepperdine 4-2 and the Waves needed just a single victory Sunday to advance. But the Trojans were never headed, scoring twice in the third inning of the first game as Mark Barr limited the Waves to six hits.

In the second game, George Mike and Ty Meyer combined to hurl a four-hitter as the Trojans rapped out 11 hits.

USC improved its record to 45-19 and travels later this week to Omaha, Neb., to face Texas in the first game of the NCAA title playoffs.

Pepperdine, winner of the West Coast Athletic Conference title, closed its season with a 28-12 record.

Atlanta's Robinson Helps Rout Expos

MONTREAL (AP) — Craig Robinson drove in three runs with a double and a single Sunday and the Atlanta Braves routed the Montreal Expos 9-0.

Robinson, who entered the game hitting .221, sparked a three-run outburst in the sixth inning when he cracked a two-run double to score Marty Perez, who had singled, and Paul Casanova, who had walked.

Winning pitcher Buzz Capra, 4-2, who scattered 10 Montreal hits, then singled to chase Expos' starter Steve Rogers, 7-4. Robinson scored when shortstop Tim Foli booted Ralph Garr's grounder.

The Braves jumped on reliever Don DeMola for three more runs in the seventh. Rowland Office led off with his second home run of the baseball season, Mike Lum doubled and Frank Tepedino singled and Robinson drove in Lum with a single. Walks to Capra and Norm Miller forced in the final run of the inning.

Redman Wins Homers Boost Yanks Over Minnesota, 11-1

LEXINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Englishman Brian Redman charged past fading polesitter Mario Andretti midway through the race Sunday and won the $58,000 Mid-Ohio Formula 5000 auto road race, his fifth straight victory in the series.

Redman, the 1973 Formula 5000 runner-up to South African Jody Scheckter, gunned his Haas Lola T332 past the 1969 Indianapolis 500 winner on the 24th lap and easily beat second-place American Brett Lunger.

The 37-year-old veteran, who averaged 99.023 miles per hour and won by 74 seconds, won for the sixth time in the last eight Formula 5000 races over the last two seasons.

Andretti went out on the 35th lap in the 42-lap race, covering 100.8 miles, over Mid-Ohio's 2.4 miles of twisting asphalt. The little Pennsylvanian's car developed suspension problems.

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Three-run homers by former Twin Rick Dempsey and Ron Blomberg and Lou Piniella's solo shot highlighted a seven-run sixth inning Sunday, pacing Mel Stottlemyre and the New York Yankees to an 11-1 victory over Minnesota.

With the Yankees leading 2-0, Piniella led off the inning with his second home run of the season. After Bill Sudakis and Graig Nettles singled, Dempsey hit his second Homer off starter Vic Albury.

Bill Butler relieved Albury and was greeted by singles by Jim Mason and Elliott Maddox. Blomberg then hit a 387-foot blast into the right field stands for a 9-0 New York lead.

Stottlemyre, who evened his record at 6-6 and broke a personal five-game losing streak, scattered six hits. Albury, making his first start ever against the Yankees, took his third loss in five decisions.

New York added two more runs in the eighth on run-producing singles by Bobby Murcer and Piniella.

27 Youths To Work On Parks

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Twenty-seven teenagers are going to learn more about Wilderness Park and the Pioneers Park Nature Center this summer than most Lincolnites know.

And, they're going to have the muscles to prove it.

The teenagers are members of Lincoln's first Youth Conservation Corps (YCC) who will tackle a number of muscle-pulling work projects during the summer months.

Work — Educational

Park Supt. Dick Hilligus explained the program is a work-educational experience since the youths also will have on-the-scene instruction in topics ranging from ecology to landscaping.

And they'll work.

Hilligus said two crews will be working in Wilderness Park, a seven-mile stretch of natural wilderness south of Lincoln. The YCC will build an underwater ford across Salt Creek so that hikers and horseback riders will be able to cross the creek instead of going three miles downstream.

Trail Improvements

The youths also will do bank and trail work, set markers on trails and clear branches from trees along the trails.

At the Nature Center the students will work on erosion control and do tree and shrub work. The two crews at the center will be under the overall supervision of Dr. Ester Bennett.

A supervisor will be assigned to each crew, Hilligus said.

More than 50 teenagers applied for the YCC, which gets underway Monday and ends Aug. 2. The students are between 16 and 19 and will work 40 hours a week. They will be paid $2 an hour.

Project Is Nonresident

Lincoln's YCC program is one of the first nonresident projects in the country, Hilligus said, since workers must provide their own transportation to the work sites. In other YCC programs the teenagers live at a central campsite.

Hilligus stressed, "This is not a poverty program."

He noted that the Park Department attempted to achieve a racial, sex and economic background balance in the YCC.

The program's overall cost is $40,000.

The city received $20,000 from the Agriculture and Interior Departments, and the city put up the other $20,000 to help pay for tools, supplies and supervisors' salaries.

The six-week camp, from June 14 to July 26, provides the cadets an opportunity to apply classroom training in military science to practical field work.

Two other ROTC cadets, Jordan D. McGovern of David City and Steven A. Wendell of Stromsburg, will participate in a nine-week U.S. Army Ranger training school from June 7 to Aug. 9.

In the Ranger program, McGovern and Wendell will spend three weeks in mountain training in northwestern Georgia, three weeks in amphibious training at Elgin Air Force Base and three weeks in jungle training in Florida swamplands.

The cadets who will attend the camp at Ft. Lewis include:

Kenneth E. Anderson, Grand Island; Brian O'Brien, Omaha; Christopher G. Clark, Omaha; James A. Franklin, Bellevue; Robert L. Fuller, Omaha; Ronnie G. Hindmarch, Lincoln; Michael F. Napolelio, Cedar Brook, N.J.; Michael B. Spiegel, Ravenna; Michael B. Tidwell, Kimball; Christopher J. Sutor, Omaha; Paul J. Zerbe, Superior; Adekunle A. Olukun, Lagos, Nigeria.
